Testimony in Senator Davis' 'Lottery' Trial Shows $150,000 and $100,000 for Mooseheart.

$50,000 TO PRIZES IN 1930 AFFAIR

$100,000 to Organization Department; Government Says This and Davis Are One and the Same.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Theodore G. Miller, head of the propagation department of the Loyal Order of Moose, who earlier refused to testify lest his testimony tend to incriminate him, took the stand at the Davis 'lottery' trial today and told about contracts for sending charity balls which the Government charges were in effect gigantic lotteries.

Miller and five others were indicted by United States Senator James J. Davis in connection with the alleged lottery, but Davis secured a severed early trial because he is running for re-election in Pennsylvania.

Miller and he contracted with Edward McGuire, a proprietor who is another of those indicted, to handle with him the affairs of the propagation department, which ran the charity balls. McGuire was to get $200 a week and one-third of all profits of the department.

The next witness, a Department of Justice agent, testified that the receipts of the 1930 ball were $1,217,178.23 and those of the 1931 ball $1,057,728.75.

The Justice Department agent said that Miller and McGuire got more than $190,000 from the 1930 ball and that $150,000 went to the Moose Orphanage at Mooseheart, Ill., the organization for which the balls were held.

From the receipts of the same ball he said $100,000 went to the organization department of the Moose. The Government charges that in effect Senator Davis was the organization department just as Miller acknowledged in testimony today that he was the organization department "were the same thing."

Joseph Cannon, special agent of the Department of Justice, testified that he conversed with Bernard C. McGuire about tickets.

Miller, who refused to testify Wednesday, called back to the stand, was asked to identify a copy of an alleged contract with McGuire. He replied, "unless the Court directs it to be answered."

"I so desire it," said the Court. Miller then identified the contract.

The contract, read to the jury, was between Miller and McGuire, and provided that Miller was to engage McGuire for three years at a salary of $200 a week plus 33 per cent of all profits of the propagation department of the Loyal Order of Moose. It was agreed that Miller acted with full authority of the supreme council of the Moose and James J. Davis, director-general. It was further agreed that all money was to be deposited in a joint account of Miller and McGuire.

Treadwell then demanded the books of the department, including canceled checks. Miller had refused to produce these books Wednesday on the ground they would tend to incriminate him. The court then upheld him, but today the rule was reversed. Miller with the help of marshals carried in five big boxes.

Jacob Heffler, Department of Justice agent, testified that he examined the books of the propagation department at Mooseheart in August, 1932. Six banks were named by him as containing accounts of the department—two in New York, one in Pittsburgh, two in Aurora, Ill., and one in Batavia, Ill.

Signatures on checks, he said, were "Propagation Department, Loyal Order of Moose" by Theodore G. Miller, Bernard C. McGuire. Receipts of the department in 1931, he said, amounted to $1,057,728.

"How much was turned over to Mooseheart?" he was asked. "A hundred and fifty thousand," he said.

Heffler said that out of the 1930 charity balls receipts—$1,217,178.24—there was paid $100,000 to the organization department of the Moose in three checks.

The checks, intended to be evidence, were made out to the organization department and indorsed over to the Fidelity Trust Co. of Pittsburgh by Fred W. Jones as treasurer of the organization department.

The Government contends that the organization department of the Moose and James J. Davis are one and the same, and seeks to show Davis never knew of the alleged lottery he planned by them.

"Was any money paid on account of James J. Davis' travel expenses?" was asked. "Yes," said the agent. "A check for $177 was paid on Jan. 7, 1931, with the notation 'Fred W. Jones traveling expense $77.' James J. Davis expense $100.00."

"Did Rodney H. Brandon get any money?" "Yes," said Heffler. The check alleged to have been paid to Brandon was marked for Identification. The amount was $6000. Brandon, on the stand Wednesday, did not remember receiving the check. He is former supervisor of the Moose and is the present public welfare director of Illinois.

Where the Money Went.

Heffler's testimony showed: 1930 ball, receipts $1,057,728.75. Disbursements $150,000 to Mooseheart; $50,000 to prizes; $145 to special additional prizes; $100,000 to the organization department; $6000 to Rodney H. Brandon; $15,300 to Fred W. Jones, and $190,198.87 to McGuire, of which $175,000 was profit, and $22,745.43 to Miller, of which $16,949.71 was profit.

1931 charity ball: $1,217,178.24. Disbursements, $150,000 to profits; $100,000 to Mooseheart; $160,000 to McGuire, of which $100,000 was profit; $79,787 to Miller, of which $60,000 was profit, and $19,78 to Vincent Johnson.

The money which Heffler testified was paid to the organization department is the amount which the Government contends was paid to a personal note of Davis.

Editor Testifies Again.

Donald E. Stewart, editor of Moose Magazine, testified that he did not print anything about awards made in connection with a Moose charity ball "because of my experience with postal regulations."

He, who holds a life position as director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, has a connection with alleged lotteries said by the Government to have been conducted in connection with the Moose charity balls of 1930 and 1931.

Charles J. Margiotti of defense counsel referred to a letter from Stewart to Davis in 1931 saying he considered it "inexpedient" to go into the phases of the charity ball in the magazine. Stewart said "inexpedient" was used to denote "dead news."

Louis M. Treadwell, chief of the prosecution staff, asked what other reason there was for not printing all the news of the ball. "I didn't print anything about the awards," Stewart replied, "because of my experience with postal regulations."

"You mean the prizes?" Treadwell asked. "Well, I thought it best to be extremely careful, to be secure and on the safe side," Stewart replied.

Earlier Stewart characterized a statement in his magazine as "rare is the line, in the Moose Magazine, that James J. Davis does not see before it goes to press"—as "rheumy money." Pressed for a more accurate description of the statement, he said it was "absolutely inaccurate." In another article written by himself in which he said Davis had "begged in vain" for objections to the charity ball and had then instructed the propagation department to "carry on the work," he said also was false.

Heffler said that out of the 1930 charity balls receipts—$1,217,178.24—there was paid $100,000 to the organization department of the Moose in three checks.

The checks, intended to be evidence, were made out to the organization department and indorsed over to the Fidelity Trust Co. of Pittsburgh by Fred W. Jones as treasurer of the organization department.

"Did Rodney H. Brandon get any money?" "Yes," said Heffler.

NEGRO EXECUTED FOR E. ST. LOUIS HOLDUP MURDER

James Smith, 21, Who Killed Confectioner, Goes to the Electric Chair at Chester Penitentiary.

By the Associated Press.
CHESTER, Ill., Sept. 22.—James Smith, 21-year-old Negro, died in the electric chair at Southern Illinois Penitentiary here today for the murder of Thomas Bogosian last Nov. 25. Smith killed Bogosian in an attempted holdup of the latter's confectionery in East St. Louis. The Negro was called to the death chamber at 4:00 a. m. and three minutes later the current was applied. He was pronounced dead after six minutes.

The straps were being adjusted when Smith was asked if he had anything to say, and responded: "All I can say is that I am ready to go away." His lips were moving in prayer as the black mask was placed over his face.

Smith ate a hearty meal last night and was outwardly calm as the hour for his execution approached.

Sentenced to Death on Plea of Guilt.

Smith was the first murderer to be sentenced to death on a plea of guilty in the 20-year history of East St. Louis City Court. The sentence was pronounced last Jan. 9 by Judge Borda.

"Thomas Bogosian is in his grave because of your bullet," the Court said in passing sentence. "I see no reason for showing you mercy."

Smith was to have been executed Feb. 18, but twice obtained stays of execution pending a decision on his appeal. His hope vanished Wednesday when Acting Gov. Sterling refused executive clemency.

Smith killed Bogosian in his confectionery at 1539 East Broadway, East St. Louis. The confectioner grappled with the robber and was shot twice. Three shots were fired at the daughter of a neighbor who was in a doorway during the struggle.

When he pleaded guilty, Smith said he was intoxicated at the time of the shooting and did not attempt to exonerate another Negro, Zack Westbrook, who was indicted with him for the murder.

Smith's trial was held in jail. The spring of 1932, the company having large inventories of once valuable securities that it was unable to liquidate. The company was handicapped by lack of working capital and receivership ensued.

INDICTMENT AGAINST FORMER RESERVE BOARD HEAD DROPPED

Department of Justice Nolic Proses
Fraud Charge Against Daniel R. Crissinger, by Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—An indictment charging Daniel R. Crissinger, former governor of the Federal Reserve Board, with using the mails to defraud, was nolle prossed today at the instance of the Department of Justice.

Crissinger, Marion (O.) attorney, was indicted in 1929 when an official of the H. Smith Co., investment broker, with other officers of the company.

In appearing before the District of Columbia Supreme Court to ask that the indictment be quashed, Nell Burkhardt, special assistant to the Attorney-General, gave no reason for dropping the charges.

Crissinger was appointed Comptroller of the Currency by President Harding in 1921. He became governor of the Federal Reserve Board in 1923 and served until September, 1927, when he resigned.

The trial of G. Bryan Pitts, former head of the Smith company, who was convicted and now is serving a prison sentence, was to the effect that Crissinger had not part in the active management of the company.

The expectation was that none of the others named in the indictment would be prosecuted.

Estil W. Francis, member of the real estate firm of Shaw & Francis, Inc., who sold 14th W. Thomasson and his young wife a $35,000 home in August, 1930, testified today at the hearing on Thomasson's motion that the elder man was "all right" when he could tell.

The purchase was made about a month after Thomasson, wealthy bachelor and real estate owner, married Mrs. Grace Carolyn Maude. Francis said Thomasson and his wife visited the property and that after Thomasson asked questions about the construction of the house, he remarked, "It is the kind of place I have always wanted. I hope I can live happily in it the future."

$25,000 deal of trust was placed in Thomasson's property at Euclid and McPherson avenues, according to Francis. $17,000 was paid to Harold W. Fowlkes, 49-year-old Negro amateur wireless operator, who was the first man to establish contact with Admiral Richard E. CITY TAX VALUATION DROPS $125,000,000

Assessor Reports Real Estate and Personal Property at $1,128,158,990.

Assessment of St. Louis real estate and personal property at $1,128,158,990, more than $125,000,000 under last year's figure, is shown in the certification made today by Assessor Gahan to the Comptroller's office. This figure does not include the assessment of railroads and utility companies, made by the State Board of Equalization, which last year was $71,803,320.

The assessments reported today are based on values as of July 1, 1931, and will be the basis for the taxes to be collected in December. By order of the State Tax Commission, the realty assessments were reduced 10 per cent.

The real estate assessment is $1,024,823,690, as compared with $1,113,401,520 last year. The personal property assessment is $103,350,000, whereas it was $140,204,570 last year. The number of tax bills to be issued this year is 214,332, compared with 209,727 last year.

Included in the personal property bills, for each year, are about 16,000 items against bank stockholders on their stock, but these bills are sent to the banks and paid by them.

Two women and eight men pleaded guilty today before Federal Judge Faris to prohibition law violations and received various penalties, as follows:

—Mrs. Annie Weisz, $200 for possession of liquor; Mrs. Frances Kinkle, $200 for possession; Joseph Wiesnowski, $350 for a sale of liquor; Marion K. McArthur, Sullivan (Mo.) roadhouse owner, $400 for possession; Matthew Brookfield, a Negro, two months in jail at Montgomery, Mo., for a sale; Charles R. Loewe, Santan (Mo.) roadhouse proprietor, $350 for possession; Arthur M. Ballentine, $150 for possession; William McGinn, $100 (Mo.) roadhouse owner, $250 for possession; Paul F. Regner, $200 for possession and August Kramer, $400 for sale.

The schools, with an 85-cent tax rate, would get $9,889,351, and the State, with a 15-cent rate, would get $1,692,259.

The foregoing figures are computed on the basis of full payment, but tax delinquencies have been about 20 per cent in past years, and a delinquency of 25 per cent would not surprise city officials this year. Delinquent taxes will be assessed annually in time, as they accrue, in interest and sinking fund, and the city is not so successful in collecting delinquent personal property taxes.

The corresponding figures for last year, without reduction for delinquency, show taxes of $3,397,038, of which the city, with a 17.2 per cent tax rate, would yield $908,629. Of this, the city would receive, for municipal purposes, interest and sinking fund, the sum of $4,747,038.

The schools, with an 85-cent tax rate, would get $9,889,351, and the State, with a 15-cent rate, would get $1,692,259.

The tax bills prepared by the Assessor were sent to the Comptroller's office for checking, and will there be certified to the Collector. Bills will be sent out in November, and payment can be made without penalty up to the end of the year.

Description of Life Under Sea. Dr. William Beebe, New York scientist, and Otto Barton, inventor of the Bathysphere, a newly devised diving apparatus, descended 2200 feet below the surface of the Atlantic Ocean here yesterday, in a bathysphere built by the Associated Press.

The bathysphere was lowered over the side and Miss Gloria Hollister, colleague of Beebe, took the microphone until Beebe could be cut in.

They went lower into the ocean than man ever had gone before. The bathysphere was several hundred feet lower than Beebe, noted as a deep sea explorer, had ever been. The bathysphere had protected them from a pressure of 4800 tons, enough to have flattened them if the apparatus had failed.

Test Made Off Bermuda.

The experiment was made seven miles off Nonsuch Island. Often he examined at some of the undersea life, all of which carried its own apparatus to light a pathway.

Responding sometimes to the questions of Miss Hollister, he commented:

"I can't see a thing. It is absolutely black. Now there are fish about two or three feet away. I can make out their forms from their own light. They are a great variety of fish.

I think the double ones are fish coming head on. Those double lights. It is the most amazing thing now, the amount of light down here.

"It varies from pale blue to pale green, but on the very pale side—no deep tone. It must be the normal luminescence of the creatures."

The bathysphere is an air-tight metal vessel having steel sides an inch and a half thick. Before the descent doors were battened down with sledges hammers.

Beebe hoped to reach 3000 feet but was prevented from doing so by leakage of sea water in a stuffing box through which the electric light cables entered the diving apparatus.

The scientists said they had seen ocean marvels of great scientific value at the newly explored depth.

Beebe's voice was heard clearly organization plan could be carried out promptly, a receivership would be inevitable.

Bondholders were asked to deposit their bonds with the company, and Aug. 23 was first set as the time limit for this depositing. The time was extended until next Monday, with the possibility of further extension. Two weeks ago the company announced that 54 per cent of the bonds had been deposited.

The Gans plaintiffs charged in their receivership petition that the reorganization plan would be fixed by the terms of prior law.

Consolidated mortgage bonds, in a worse position than holders of other securities which should be "junior" to them. They referred also to the payment of dividends by Little in 1920-31, and to the purchase by the Frisco, in 1925-26, of large holdings of stock in the Rock Island and the Gulf, Mobile & Northern railroads.

BANKER HELD AS AID IN BIG ALCOHOL RING

Said to Have Handled All Financial Affairs of New York Syndicate.

By the Associated Press
NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 23.—Special agents of the United States Department of Justice have announced first results of a year's investigation into an alcohol syndicate which, they have said, did a $2-000,000 gross business during a five months' period late in 1931 and early in 1932.

Joseph A. Frayne, assistant chief of the agents, said the ring was one of the largest of five operating in the metropolitan district and declared it did both an export and import business with Canadian interests.

Edward J. Moffett has surrendered here on a charge of embezzeling funds from the Central Bank and Trust Co. He was secretary treasurer of the bank until a shortage was discovered five months ago and he had been missing since April 13.

Frayne said Moffett handled the financial matters for the alcohol group, which had 15 accounts in the Central Bank and Trust Co.
under fictitious names. Frayne said more than $2,000,000 passed through those accounts.

Moffett has been suspended to appear before the grand jury in New York today but Frayne said he had been unable to obtain more information from him. Hugh Mc-Quillan, Federal income tax investigator, said Moffett might be held in contempt of court "until he is ready to reveal what he knows."

In speaking of the syndicate, Frayne said it included 20 of the best bootleggers in the metropolitan district and promised wholesale indictments against the men.

The main distilleries that supplied alcohol for the syndicate have been raided and closed since prohibition began their investigation.

Frayne said shipments were made from these plants to all parts of the United States and to Canada.
The shipments were in carload lots,
he said, and were billed as oil.
The alleged Canadian end of the ring was disclosed this week, when eight indictments were returned at Montreal and several arrests were made. Included among those arrested were officers of the Albany Oil and Gas Co., which Frayne declared cut Canadian liquor with the alcohol received. The product then was "imported," he said, and sold for real Canadian liquor.

Nearly 300 carloads were shipped from Newark during the five months' period, Frayne said, to such cities as Baltimore, Los Angeles, Peoria, Ill., Kansas City and Chicago.

Frayne said the leader of the syndicate was a New Yorker with many aliases, but he refused to disclose his name or the names of others he said he hoped to have indicted.

R. F. C. CRITICISES PINCHOT; LENDS TO PENNSYLVANIA

Declares Any Failure to Grant Relief to Poor of State Is Fault of Governor and Legislature.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Pennsylvania today has a $2,500,000 advance from the Reconstruction Corporation for aiding the needy in three of its largest counties.

With the money, voted yesterday by the corporation directors for Philadelphia, Allegheny and Northampton counties, came also an $800,000 public statement which said:

"If there has been any failure to grant relief to the poor and distressed of Pennsylvania, the faults lie with the Governor and the Legislature of that great State and not with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

Gov. Pinchot has charged in public that red tape was causing starvation in Pennsylvania by delaying the relief loan. Tuesday he took the dispute to the White House, asking by telegram for a personal audience, but was told by President Hoover in a return message that corporation actions were independent of his influence.

Philadelphia to Seek More.

In Miller, Ill., Gov. Pinchot last night declined to comment on the emergency loan grant pending a study of its terms.

Philip C. Staples, chairman of the Philadelphia Relief Board, said efforts again would be made to enlist President Hoover's aid in obtaining up to $10,000,000.

The corporation directors began their statement by saying that "in view of the many misstatements which have been issued from Harrisburg" we desire the people of Pennsylvania to accept the facts." The corporation said that three days before President Hoover signed the relief act in July, there by making available $300,000,000 for relief distribution, Gov. Pinchot applied for a $45,000,000 loan—the maximum allowed one State—asking that $10,000,000 be advanced immediately.

"Fifty-one states and territories were eligible for relief," it continued. "If seven states, first making applications, had asked for and been granted $45,000,000 there would have been nothing left for the other 44 states and territories."

Information Lacking.

The board said that after hearings on Aug. 12, 13 and 14 the corporation directors told Pinchot they would withhold an advance until the State Legislature acted. This body later appropriated $12,000,000 for State relief.

Pennsylvania then renewed its application with the corporation, the board continued, but did not supply all the information required by the corporation of governors seeking loans. It added:

"The Governor replied that he had furnished all necessary data and deserved that it was impossible to supply the information demanded by the corporation. This reply was made in spite of the fact that all other Governors who had obtained Federal funds had supplied the information."

"If there was any undue delay, it was the fault of the Pennsylvania officials in not furnishing the required information."

"The President of the United States and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation were fully advised as to their responsibility. They are eager to have the relief measures of Congress administered in accordance with their spirit."

"Further loans which come within the scope of our authority will be made promptly, if, when and as the information required is presented."

"Any statement to the contrary, no matter by whom made, is not true."

The Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad Co. has been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to borrow $250,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to meet semiannual interest payments on first mortgage bonds.

URGES METHODISTS TO FIGHT FOR DRY ILLINOIS SENATE

Anti-Saloon League Head Tells Southern Conference House Is Hopelessly Wet.

By the Associated Press.

FLORA, Ill., Sept. 22.—Dr. George Safford, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois, yesterday appealed to Southern Illinois Methodists to concentrate on electing a dry Illinois Senate.

Speaking before the Southern Illinois Conference, Dr. Safford said a dry victory in Illinois would strengthen prohibition throughout the nation and give the wet "the greatest blow it has ever had by showing they cannot win Illinois on the wet side." He warned the conference that unless a dry Senate is elected, the wet will control both Houses of the Illinois Legislature.

"We can't do anything in the House," he said. "Chicago has sent down too many wets, but it so happens we have 14 dry candidates for the Senate, and if they are elected we are safe."

Dr. Safford urged the church members to co-operate with the League, and said the "burning question of the League at this time is funds."

1400 THREAD MILL WORKERS PUT BACK ON 6-DAY BASIS

Increased Activity in Factory at Fall River, Mass.; Other Cities in Business.

By the Associated Press.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 22.—The Fall River Mill has announced it has placed its 1400 employees formerly working on a three or four day basis—on the full six-days-a-week shift.

By the Associated Press.

SHERITON, Wash., Sept. 22.—The logging employment to 250 men, two camps of the Simpson Logging Co. have been ordered to resume operations before Oct. 1.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 22.—Woods Brothers' Construction Co. announced yesterday its employees had increased in 30 days from 480 to 1500 men; and that in another month there would be 2000 men, approximating the 1929 level. The men are employed on flood control and inland navigation construction along the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers from St. Joseph, Mo., to Memphis, Tenn. This work will extend, the announcement said, far into 1930.

By the Associated Press.

DANVILLE, Pa., Sept. 22.—The north branch of the Susquehanna River is lower than it was 12 years ago. A root bearing the date 1820, never visible above water within the memory of the eldest fisherman and boatmen, can be seen above the surface of the stream today.

Scant rainfalls have caused record-breaking low water marks along the whole length of the river.

MAN SUES WOMAN IN CHICAGO ALLEGING BREACH OF PROMISE

Court Continues Case to Oct. 15 to Find Out Whether It Can Be Done.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Alanson Malott, formerly of Leamington, Ont., filed a breach of promise suit here yesterday against Mrs. Mary Anne Laetitia Brown of Glencoe. Three years ago, Malott says, he and his friend, Horace S. Brown, wooed the former Mrs. Laetitia, a widow, when she was visiting at Leamington. Brown married her in October, 1930, but now she is suing for divorce.

Malott contends Mrs. Brown promised to marry him but married Brown, thus subjecting Malott to such humiliation in Leamington that he had to move away.

"I think a suit would have to be brought for special damages," he said.

"Can a man sue a woman for breach of promise?" Judge Joseph continued the suit to Oct. 15.

TO TAKE HEAT FROM CONCRETE
Science Will Remove 43,500 British Thermal Units.
BOULDER CITY, Nev., Sept. 22.—Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, explained here yesterday how science proposes to take 43,500 British thermal units of heat out of the 3,400,000 cubic yards of concrete of the Hoover Dam. The heat, generated by the setting of the concrete, he said, would take 100 years to remove without refrigerating devices.

But the Government has ready 800,000 linear feet of two-inch refrigeration pipe, with 16,000 couplings for use in the dam structure. The plant will have a refrigerant capacity of 2100 gallons a minute, at 42° F. 65° F. degrees. It will remove 1000 cubic yards in two months. The work of removing all heat in excess of 72 degrees will begin six days after placement of the concrete.

SPANISH WAR PENSIONS DENOUNCED BY SIMS

Retired Admiral Proposes $109,000,000 Cut in "Steal of Nastiest Kind."

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—Rear Admiral William S. Sims, United States Navy (retired), said yesterday the system of Spanish-American War pensions was a "steal of the nastiest kind and an outrage to the American taxpayers." It will remove 1000 cubic yards in two months. The work of removing all heat in excess of 72 degrees will begin six days after placement of the concrete.

But the Government has ready 800,000 linear feet of two-inch refrigeration pipe, with 16,000 couplings for use in the dam structure. The plant will have a refrigerant capacity of 2100 gallons a minute, at 42° F. 65° F. degrees. It will remove 1000 cubic yards in two months. The work of removing all heat in excess of 72 degrees will begin six days after placement of the concrete.

"The Spanish-American War," he said, "lasted exactly 114 days, and although less than 400 were killed and less than 5000 died of wounds and disease, yet more than 227,000 out of the 250,000 who served are now drawing Government pensions. The cost this year for Spanish-American war pensions is $115,000,000.

"The Economy League proposes this year to urge Congress to reduce the amount being paid to Spanish-American War pensions by $109,000,000. Such a reduction will not affect in the slightest the 20,000 veterans or dependents who are rightfully and justly entitled to such aid."

Speaking of World War veterans' payments and benefits, Sims said "a reduction of $450,000,000 can be made in the $690,000,000 appropriated for them this year and still provide liberally and justly to men whose disabilities in fact arose out of service and to dependents of those who were killed in action or who died as a result of disabilities or illness arising out of the war."

CONSTABLE KILLED IN THIRD
SHOOTING AFFRAY IN YEAR
Member of Prominent Family Says Florida Officer Fired on Him.

By the Associated Press.
LAKEVILLE, Fla., Sept. 21.—Constable Frank Dixon, survivor of several shooting affrays, last Tuesday in a fight on an isolated road with Martin Tillman, member of a prominent Florida family. Officers found Dixon shot dead and Tillman standing beside the body. He told them the Constable fired on him with a pistol and he answered with a shotgun.

Thanksgiving night Dixon and a companion, Wilber Snyder, were fired on. Snyder was killed, but the Constable escaped unhurt. Sidney Chestnut was charged with murder and sentenced to die. A year ago Dixon and Carl Chestnut fought with shotguns, and the Constable suffered a scalp wound and his gun stock was shattered.

Tillman refused to comment, but officers recalled his brother and Dixon had a bitter dispute recently.

VACCINATION IS STILL NEEDED, SAY DOCTORS

St. Louis Medical Society Affirms Its Necessity for Prevention of Smallpox.

The St. Louis Medical Society, in resolutions adopted at its last weekly meeting, declared that the practice of vaccination continues to be a necessity, for protection of communities against smallpox.

With the resolutions it has made public a reply, prepared by Dr. Joseph Grindon, to an editorial which appeared recently in a St. Louis newspaper. The editorial was based on the reported death of a boy in Washington from tetanus after vaccination. It spoke of compulsory vaccination as "almost criminal folly," "an anachronism" and "a medical fetish."

Replying to this and other statements in the editorial, Dr. Grindon said first that inquiry in the Washington case had shown that the vaccine used was free from tetanus germs. He quoted the Health Commissioner of St. Louis as saying that he did not know of a single case in this city of tetanus having been due to vaccination, and that some such reports here had been found, on investigation, to be groundless.

Dr. Grindon then combated the idea, expressed in the editorial, that "smallpox as a dangerous disease has almost disappeared." He gave official figures of other cities on deaths from smallpox in the years 1920-25, showing 299 such deaths in Denver, 225 in Kansas City, 171 in Detroit, 164 in Los Angeles and two in St. Louis, which he declared to be "the best vaccinated large city in the country." Vaccination is required for admission to the St. Louis schools.

He attacked the assertion that "cleaner living" had caused the decline of smallpox, and might have had the same result if vaccination had never been heard of. He said that smallpox, unlike cholera and typhoid, is not a filth disease. "Smallpox," he said, "does not respect the rich, the refined or the clean, unless they are vaccinated. It does respect the tramp, the hobo and the dirty when they are vaccinated."

Replying to the charge that "compulsory vaccination, where modern civilization exists, is an anachronism," Dr. Grindon cited figures as to California. That state repealed its compulsory vaccination law in 1921, and within four years the number of smallpox cases increased more than fourfold. In Los Angeles, with smallpox deaths running as high as 62 in a month, a state of public calamity was undertaken, and the disease was placed under control. Dr. Grindon concludes, from this, that "the anachronism consists in ignoring the scientific conclusions of the twentieth century and seeking to drag us back to the ignorance of the eighteenth."

As to the charge that vaccination is a "medical fetish," Dr. Grindon suggests that it would be equally correct to say that the doctrine of the earth's motion around the sun is a superstition. "Most of us," he said, "have only one reason for believing it, namely, that those who have studied the matter say so."

The Medical Society's resolutions declare vaccination "the greatest single sanitary measure hitherto devised by man." The society affirms further:

"Smallpox everywhere and at all times has diminished proportionately to the thoroughness of vaccination; that successful vaccination with revaccination confers upon the individual complete immunity against smallpox; and that the need for thorough vaccination of the people is as great now as at any former time, as evidenced by the sad experience of several American cities in recent years."

"The medical society adds, 'deeply deplores the fact that a metropolitan newspaper, which should be a leader in the path of progress, should seek to spread notions dangerous to the health and lives of the people."

CURB VENDORS ELIMINATED

BY WHOLESALE FLORISTS

Prices to Street Merchants Raised So High They Cease Operating.

Selling of flowers by street merchants, who stationed themselves at automatic traffic signals on boulevards about the city and cried their merchandise at downtown street corners, has ceased following recent action by wholesale florists, who have raised prices to the curb merchants to prohibit figures.

The move was explained today by George P. Kuehner, president of the Wholesale Florists' Protective Association and head of H. G. Bering, Inc., florists, 2722 La Salle street. "There has been no organized action taken," he said. "It was brought about merely by competition and with a view to bettering conditions in the entire trade."

"The curb dealers have been a thorn in the side of the regular retail shops. With no overhead or other cost except their original investment in the merchandise, they have been able to sell at far lower prices than the established dealers. Of course, the quality of the flowers they offered was low in many cases, too."

"One wholesaler announced recently to his regular customers that he was no longer going to sell to the curb merchants. This action naturally met with great approval by the retailers, so of course, the rest of us fell into line."

GOV. CAULFIELD DENIES ROAD BOARD CHARGE

Answers Contention That Commission Is Used to Strengthen G. O. P.

By the Associated Press.
ROLLA, Mo., Sept. 23.—A charge by a gentleman high in the State Democratic organization that the State Highway Department is being used "for the purpose of expanding the Republican organization and swelling the Republican vote in November" was called "untrue and unfair" by Gov. Caulfield in an address today at Lake Springs.

While the Governor did not mention James P. Aylward, Kansas City, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Democratic State Committee, by name, it was known that his reference was to a recent statement by Aylward.

"In 1927," the Governor said, "an individual charged that the Highway Department, in order to refute the charge, a poll was taken with the result that it was ascertained that out of 1900 employees, 1750 responded, and of these 800 were Republican, 750 Democratic and 200 independent. This balancing of the parties in employment by the commission was accidental, the employment having been without regard to politics, but it may fairly be said that the poll discloses no disposition to favor one party over the other in the conduct of department affairs.

Recalls Recent Charge.

"Nevertheless, a gentleman high in the State Democratic organization recently fit to charge that the deterioration of the bipartisan Highway Commission to help relieve the unemployment situation by reducing the hours of labor and substituting hand work for machines was possible without undue loss of economy, and thus employing more men was for the purpose of expanding the Republican organization and selling the Republican vote in November."

"The charge is as untrue as it is unfair and unkind. And in this statement I am sure that I will be supported by the commission, Democrats and Republicans, and by Dr. Buehler. (Dr. H. A. Buehler, State Geologist, is ex-officio member of the commission.)

"The truth is that the United States Government advanced $2,753,000 to the State for road building on condition that it be spent by July 1, 1933, subject to certain conditions looking towards relief.

"Among these conditions are requirements that the contractors doing the work shall employ labor, as far as it is available, from lists furnished by county employment committees, and that preference shall be given to the selection from such lists, where qualified, to ex-service men, with dependents; that skilled and unskilled laborers shall not be permitted to work more than 30 hours per week, and that the minimum wage per hour shall be 35 cents for unskilled labor and 50 cents for skilled labor. These provisions have been extended by the commission to all road projects, partly because it was inconvenient and illogical to have different rules for different projects, but mostly because the districts of the commission called for work relief, and the Highway Commission was in a position to furnish it. It is hoped that by this means 12,000 men will be put to work."

Decided State Highway.

The Governor, who spoke at the dedication of State Highway No. 72, Rolla to Salem, said he felt sure the people would be interested to know "where the two candidates for Governor stand on this matter of keeping the Highway Department out of partisan politics."

Missouri's road building program, the Governor said, "is one of the greatest achievements in history."

"It has advanced education, cheapened and facilitated transportation, contributed to the enjoyment and happiness of our people, and brought the people and communities into closer association," he said. "It has been a mighty factor in lifting our people from the evil effects of the world-wide depression. It has provided employment for thousands not only by direct employment in construction, but by purchases of cement, crushed stone, gravel and other supplies, as well as equipment, and by expenditures with railroads for transportation of materials."

DRIVER WHOSE AUTO KILLED MILK MAN HELD BY CORONER

Verdict of Criminal Carelessness Is Returned Against Wesley J. Hale.

Los Angeles, Sept. 23.—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of criminal carelessness in the case of Mrs. W. J. Siegel, Mrs. W. J. Siegel, who sued for $15,000 damages alleging she was bitten by a police dog, lost her case today before a jury in Judge Rutledge's court. The suit was against the owner, Mrs. Harry G. Wall of Hemmette, Mo.; the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club and George F. Foley Dog Show Organization, that gave an exhibition at The Arena in April.

Hale, a filling station attendant, who resides at 5440 North Broadway, was held for the grand jury under $5000 bond. O'Loughlin, the father of two small children, lived at 2004 McLaren avenue.

The Wall dog was on exhibition in a kennel. Mrs. Siegel said that when she was passing nearby, the animal pushed open a swinging door and bit her on the left forearm.

Mrs. Wall formerly lived at 5725 Chamberlain avenue.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

FIREMEN SCRAP 'HACK DRIVER'S OVERCOAT' FOR NEW STYLE

Discard Design, In Use Since 1903, in Favor of Much Shorter, More Reversible.

Tired of the old-fashioned dress overcoat, the 300 city firemen of St. Louis have decided to adopt a new style uniform garment, effective Nov. 1. Their decision was ratified yesterday at a meeting of Director of Public Safety Steininger, Fire Chief de Voto and the district chiefs.

The old overcoat was adopted of the same dark blue color as the old one. It will have broad notched front and wide cuffs, but will be as the old coat had. It will end seven inches above the knee, being 10 inches shorter than the discarded coat. By changing to ordinary buttons, the new overcoat will be suitable for civilian attire. When it becomes shabby, it can be used while working at fires, something for which the former coat was unsuitable.

The old overcoat design had been in use since 1903. Some of the more contented wearers called it a "hack driver's coat." It cost from $25 to $40 recently, and as high as $50 in the past. The new coat can be bought for $30.50. The change will affect all ranks from captains down. The district chiefs wear a different style.

Susquehanna River Drying Up. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—The Susquehanna River was at its lowest stage in many years today as a result of the drought during the past six months in this section. Sand bars and rocks now above water and the river coal fleet which usually pumps up much fine coal washed away the upstream miners' ties up. The Susquehanna is wadeable at many points in Bradford County. Many creeks and brooks the river are dried up, and wells and springs are failing.

CHARGES BIGAMY

MRS. CHARLOTTE WHITE.
By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

TRUCK DRIVER HELD ON CHARGE OF BIGAMY

Carl White, in Jail at Fulton, Mo., Says He Thought He Was Divorced.

Carl White, 27-year-old truck driver, 2728 Caroline street, is held at Fulton, Mo., on a charge of bigamy preferred by his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Virginia White, who found her husband of two years recently had married again. The pair had not been divorced.

Mrs. White told authorities that White, about Sept. 1, drove her in his truck to Bowling Green, where visitors relatives. He proceeded to Mexico, Mo. A few days later she received a letter from him, stating that he would call for her.

When he failed to arrive, Mrs. White returned alone to St. Louis, and later, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Luella Hawkins, went to Mexico to investigate her husband's disappearance and rumors that he had remarried. There, in a newspaper, she found an account of his elopement, at midnight, Sept. 1, with Miss Lena Peeler, of Mexico.

In jail at Fulton, White said he thought his wife intended to divorce him when he left her at Bowling Green, and that he was free to marry again. Mrs. White, who appeared with their 7-month-old son, Carl Jr., denied divorce had been discussed.

At the jail conference, authorities said, White importuned his legal wife for another chance, and promised to raise money for her support and that of the child. Mrs. White, however, said she would prosecute.

FORMER HEAD OF PAGE BANK HELD FOR FALSE PRETENSES

John L. Crain Ordered to Trial on Complaints of Woman on $250 Creamery Stock Sale.

John L. Crain, former president of the defunct Page Bank, was held for trial after a preliminary hearing at St. Charles yesterday on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses.

Mrs. Emma Edinger of Foristell, testified she gave Crain and O. W. Anderson—accused with him—$250 for stock in a creamery which was to have been established at Wentzville. The creamery was never built.

Crain testified that he had no connection with the proposed creamery, but went to St. Charles County as the agent of a St. Louis brokerage firm to sell the stock.

GRAND LODGE OF MISSOURI MASON'S TO MEET TUESDAY

The 112th annual communication of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Missouri will convene Tuesday in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3637 Lindell boulevard, for a three-day session. Ray V. Denlow, of Trenton, grand master, will preside. B. Bainbridge Colby, of New York, who was Secretary of State under President Wilson, and representative of the Missouri Lodge in the Grand Lodge of New York, will address the convention Tuesday evening. Dr. Walter Williams, president of the University of Missouri and grand orator of the grand lodge, will also address the delegates.

TO BEGIN BRIDGE AT GRAFTON Company to Start 2000-Foot Span in October.
By the Associated Press
QUINCY, Ill., Sept. 23.—The Calhoun Bridge Co. announced today work will start next month on a bridge to cross the Illinois River 2.4 miles above Grafton in Calhoun County. The bridge will be a combination vehicular and railroad span, a link on the Alton, Quincy & Northern Railroad project which has been abandoned temporarily.

It will have a vertical clearance of 50 feet and a horizontal clearance of 250 feet, between spans insisted upon by the WPA Department instead of the original 250 feet. The structure, proper, without trestles, will be 2000 feet long.

GREEN SAYS LABOR WILL FIGHT FOR LEGALIZED BEER

Tells Iron Workers A. F. of L. Will Go to Congress
With Appeal for Volstead Modification.

Modification of the Volstead act will be urged by the American Federation of Labor before Congress when it convenes in December, William Green, president of the federation, told the convention of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers yesterday at Hotel Jefferson.

Green said that the legalized sale of beer would benefit the economic and social structures of the nation.

Economic benefit would result from employment being given to thousands of men; breweries would be rebuilt; new machinery made, transportation would increase and money would get in circulation,

Green asserted.

"In view of the legalized manufacture and sale of beer would give the economic conditions in this country an impetus that would be, at least, one factor in the return to prosperity," he said.

Would Eliminate Rackets."

Temperance would result from the legalized sale of beer, Green said, and the nation would benefit socially. The substitution of a legal method of obtaining beer, he said, would "effectively end the beer racket, with all its attendant rackets" effectively reduce crime and in general would have a healthy influence in strengthening respect for law.

The greatest need of the country is to restore the purchasing power of the working people, which can be accomplished by distributing wealth more evenly. This can be done by keeping wages at a high level, Green said, and by cutting the short working day and week.

"If the six-day day and the five-day week, as now adopted by many industries, does not keep the masses of working men employed, then the hours must be cut still more until labor and earnings are evenly distributed," he declared.

Assails Rush to Cut Wages.

"The mistake made by the capitalists was the immediate rush to reduce wages as soon as the depression began to be felt. Union labor has never been asked to maintain high wages. Lower the workingman's wage and he cannot buy. The result is an economic depression as we have today."

The unions have suffered financially as all organizations by the depression, Green said, but the national and international organizations are as strong as ever, because they have adhered to the policies of trade unions and have not followed the capitalist line.

Distributions of death and pension benefits in union labor organizations will have to be modified because of unemployment and loss of membership, Green declared.

"The labor movement, however, has come through with credit, and the membership it has lost will return as soon as industry mends," Green said.

Officers who spoke yesterday were Matthew Wohl, third vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, and Frank P. Walsh, general counsel.

Art Glass Unwashed for 16 Years

SON, KILLS SELF WHEN HE DIES

Jobless Man Who Sought $10 from Brooklyn Police Found Dead of Gas.

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—A week ago a man entered Brooklyn police headquarters and tried to borrow $10 to telephone to California.

"My child is dying in Pasadena," he said. "Maybe my voice might help him." He didn't get the money. Yesterday he was found dead of gas in a furnished room.

A letter from his wife was on his lap and he was facing a photograph of a woman and three children.

ILLINOIS MILITIA

USES TEAR GAS ON MINE PICKETS

Troops With Fixed Bayonets Clear Way for Men Returning to Pit at Langleyville.

By the Associated Press.
TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Sept. 22.—Tear gas and smoke bombs burst in the streets of Langleyville, a village near here, today, clearing the way for coal miners to go to work. Through a jeering, jeering crowd of citizens Illinois National Guardsmen pushed their way. Machine guns looked down the street from each end of the village. In groups of six, bayonets fixed, the guards marched into town, tossing gas bombs ahead and driving out of Langleyville every loiterer who had no residence.

Two weeks ago the Peabody Coal Co. mine No. 9 had decided to open, but there were not enough workers at hand at the appointed time. The opening was scheduled for 8 o'clock this morning and at dawn the militant forces, 180 National Guardsmen supplemented by 40 State police with three sergeants and Chief Walter Moody from Springfield, moved in to fend off any attempt of pickets to keep the mine shut down.

Men From Other Towns.
The striking pickets objecting to resumption of work at the reduced basic wage of $8 a day, converged in small numbers from nearby towns. Rockwood, Jackson, but suddenly joined them in the streets during early morning, but as dawn came the soldiers marched in, warning that there would be no loitering, no picketing and driving from the street all who had no business. Roads into Langleyville from every direction were patrolled by the Guardsmen to make the way safe for the miners who went back to the diggings long abandoned.

Langleyville, a mining hamlet of 250 population, recruits its miners from its own residents and the nearby towns, notably Kincaid and Taylorville—the latter the Christian County seat, where bombs last Sunday were tossed into the offices of the United Mine Workers and of the Taylorville Breeze. Capt. Carl Meacham of Decatur led the militia forces that stood guard over Langleyville today.

To Control Production.
The opening of the mine resulted in no violence. No shots were fired and only three arrests were made by the troops. Some 300 men had gathered in Langleyville, besides the men who intended to work. They were all escorted to their automobiles parked along the roadside and directed to go.

Three hundred and eighteen men returned to work, W. C. August, Peabody mine superintendent, said. Of these 247 went below and 52 were retained on top as company men. They were all at work before the troops left the scene to return at 9 a.m., quitting time at the mine.

Tomorrow and every day for a week or so, the same protection will be afforded the mine. In that time the mine management hopes to have many more of the old miners back at work.

INHALATOR FIGHT TO SAVE NEW-BORN BABY FAILS

Nineteen Tanks of Oxygen Used; Physician and Fireman Work With Child at Hospital.

Efforts of East St. Louis firemen, physicians and hospital attendants to save the life of Baby Mann of East St. Louis failed last night. The two-pound infant, born shortly after noon Wednesday, died at 9:45 p.m. in an incubator at St. Mary's Hospital.

As of yesterday, the East St. Louis Fire Department's resuscitation and inhalation apparatus used in prolonging the life of the child, whose development before birth lacked three months of the normal time. Wednesday afternoon and night the baby's breathing ceased repeatedly, but was restored by the appliance, which supplied a mixture of oxygen and carbon dioxide. Early yesterday natural breathing was established and through the day and evening the baby, kept in the incubator at a temperature of 94 degrees, breathed the oxygen without having the apparatus applied directly.

For 40 minutes after breathing stopped last night, the apparatus was used in the endeavor to resuscitate the little form. In all, 19 tanks of oxygen were used. Dr. C. E. Kline, who brought the infant into the world, and Fireman Al Martz, in charge of the apparatus, were with the baby more than 31 hours.

Baby Mann was the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mann of 8502 State street, who have been married 12 years. The father is a repair man for the East St. Louis Railway Co.

Cleveland Air Races Lost $17,000.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 22.—Whether Cleveland will compete with Detroit, New York and Chicago for the National Air Races of 1933 depends on a favorable expression of public sentiment. L. W. Grove, president of National Air Races, Inc., says in reporting the net loss of $17,301 for the grand prix this year. The deficit includes a fund of $7,000 withheld for contingencies. The total expenditures were $37,300 of which $23,738 was for prizes.

Action Follows Involuntary Bankruptcy Proceeding Against Operator of Five Stores.

Following the institution yesterday of an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding in Federal Court against Alexander A. Stinson, doing business as the Imperial Coffee Pot Co., Judge Faris appointed John L. Gilmore, an attorney, as receiver to take charge of the assets of the concern which operates five stores.

Particular creditors, with claims aggregating $405, allege Stinson is insolvent and told employees he was leaving the city last Tuesday with no intention of returning. Since then his places of business have been closed and one has been seized by a Constable to satisfy a judgment.

G. O. P. HERE WON'T GIVE OUT DETAILS OF VOTERS CANVASS

Statement Probably Will Be Issued When Check of Results Ends Tomorrow.

Chairman Gruner of the Republican City Committee said today that the committee would not announce detailed results of the canvass of voters in the quadrennial registration next week. It is reported that the canvassers have found a drift of more than 15 per cent of avowed Republicans to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee. However, most of these persons have said they would vote the Republican ticket except for President-elect Roosevelt.

The canvassers meeting the committee about $8000, is intended to aid in bringing out a full registration next week. It is reported that the canvassers have found a drift of more than 15 per cent of avowed Republicans to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee. However, most of these persons have said they would vote the Republican ticket except for President-elect Roosevelt.

The precinct canvassers were instructed not to argue with Republicans who said they would vote for Roosevelt. Instead, they have shown these persons how to mark their ballots for the rest of the Republican party. The election of Republicans who intend to vote for Roosevelt is not carried farther down the line. Most of them added that they would support former Mayor Kiel, Republican nominee for United States Senator. Some voters have stated they did not favor election of Lieutenant-Governor Winter, the Republican nominee for Governor, because he is not a progressive.

NIGHT BASEBALL AND ALEXANDER DRAW CROWD OF 10,000 FANS

-- ADDIT

LIGHTING PLANT UNEQUAL TO JOB; DIZZY DEAN IN STRIKEOUT ROLEBy John E. Wray.
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

On a field half-illuminated by flood lights, "Old Pete" Alexander came back to the scene of his former triumphs, last night. More than 10,000 fans who packed the Sportsman's Park bleachers and comfortably filled the lower grandstand and pavilions, paid $272 to cheer the hero of the 1926 world series and get a last look, perhaps, at the old master in action.

With his neck bandaged because of a carbuncle, Alexander worked the first two innings against practically the same team of Cardinals that had defeated the Reds, 8 to 5, in the afternoon, and he held the Redbirds to two hits and no runs during the tenures of his command. Redes doubled to open the first inning, but was caught at the plate on a double steal to end the inning. With two out Frisch doubled and was left on base in the second.

That ended Old Pete's display. He was given a tumultuous cheer first when he went to the hill and finally when he left the game. The fans are mounting on Old Pete and he is no longer a nobody. Redes doubled to open the first inning, but was caught at the plate on a double steal to end the inning. With two out Frisch doubled and was left on base in the second.

Attendance a Surprise.

The attendance was a genuine surprise to President Sam Breadon, who had not expected such a large turnout, even with Alexander dangled as a bait. But whether the crowd came as a tribute to Old Pete or as drawn by curiosity to see the first night game ever played in Sportsman's Park, it probably gained an unfavorable impression of the after-dark variety of the national game. On what was shown there is little danger that the flood lights will ever knock the daylight out of baseball.

Even the experienced House of David men, who play excellent baseball despite their advertising whisks, lost an occasion of high handshakes. They judged the fast grounders that they would have "eaten up" by daylight. Pop flies that were foul by only a few feet were lost to view of the fielders and allowed to fall safe.

President Breadon, who viewed part of the game from the almost unoccupied press box, hastened to explain that night baseball should not be judged by the Sportsman's Park edition.

Lighting Plant Inadequate.

"This lighting system is entirely inadequate," he explained. "At Columbus, where we have the latest thing in flood lights, there is not a shadow or a dark spot. In some respects the visibility is greater than by daylight. The ball is highly illuminated by the lights and really is more easily followed than by day."

"There are there and at Houston, Tex., like night baseball, and at one game in Columbus this year we had 19,000 attendance. I am not yet prepared to say that night baseball should be introduced to the major leagues, but naturally am interested. Just take this crowd here. They're out just to see an exhibition game with the House of David in a contest that means nothing. Yet last night turned out to be the best game this afternoon, when a regular championship game was played, only about 400 persons attended."

"No doubt Alexander and curiously drew a large number. But I am sure that the attendance means there is a far greater number of persons who are able and eager to attend ball games at night than is the case in daylight. The introduction of an occasional night game into the league schedule might not prove a bad idea."

Considering the fact that the House of David team carries its own electric power plant and lighting system and installs it in one and one-half hours, the lighting was not so bad. Four telescopic towers built on auto trucks, and placed on the foul lines on either side of first and third bases, supported the light fixture. Two additional lights in the outfield brightened the dimness there. Center field was occupied by the power plant, also operated from automobile trucks, and the twilight there was thick.

Dizzy Dean to the Rescue.

The Cardinals, using the same lineup that had beaten Cincinnati in the afternoon, except that Starr did the pitching and the Springfielders' De Lancy did the catching, didn't have much luck in the early innings, but they finally won out, 10 to 3.

The bearded boys got to Starr in the fourth inning for four hits and scored three runs and that jolted the Redbirds into action. They regained two runs on doubles by Collins and Frisch and a single by De Lancy, and broke down Miller's pitch completely in the sixth, seventh and eighth, scoring a total of eight runs.

An interesting highlight of the play was Dizzy Dean, who pitched the last five innings (by request) although he had hurried a game only the day before. Dizzy showed that night in his time to shine by striking

ROOT LIKELY TO HURL FOR CUBS IN SECOND GAME OF TITLE SERIES

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Nothing has happened during the relaxation process of the Cubs to alter Manager Charlie Grimm's decision to stick to his "big four" pitchers in the world series.

The Cub hurling quartet of Guy Bush, Charlie Root, Lonnie Warneke and Pat Malone was expected to start in that order against the Yankees, with the burden of relief, if necessary, falling mostly on the shoulders of young Bud Tinning.

Malone was cuffed around by Pittsburgh Wednesday. But every Pirata hit was music to Manager Grimm's world series ear. The Altonians (Pa.) fireman always has been an in-the-outer, with one good game and then a bad one.

Except for a few innings, Root was to be allowed a good rest before his start in the big show to his aching arm.

Bush and Warneke were slated for their final tune-ups tomorrow and Sunday in closing series against Cincinnati.

Except for a possible relief role, world series fans may not get a glimpse of the other Cub pitchers in the series.

Burleigh Grimes, victim of illness most of the season and handicapped by a troublesome appendix right now, failed to impress Grimm yesterday in the final game against the Pirates. He was thumped for nine hits and six runs in five innings. Bob Smith gave some encouragement by holding the Bucs to three hits in four innings. As for the rest of the pitchers, the inexperience of the youngsters on the team, Jackie May, nothing in the way of a world series performance was expected.

Thus Grimm will depend almost entirely on the quartet that pitched a total of 71 victories against 43 defeats in the rush to the National League pennant.

THOMAS FOR PAYING BONUS TO UNEMPLOYED VETERANS

Opening Western Tour at Grand Rapids, Mich., Socialist nominee addresses Princeton Alumni. By the Associated Press.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 22.—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for the presidency, began his Western campaign tour here last night with two speeches, in which he pictured the Socialist party as the only savior in sight from "an American form of Fascism." Thomas spoke at a dinner of fellow alumni of Princeton University and later at an outdoor meeting.

"Gov. Roosevelt," he charged, was "keeping his mouth shut on the bonus question until he finds out where the most votes lie." President Hoover, Thomas said, "is assisting business and letting the individual get what slopes over."

Thomas said that immediate payment of the bonus to unemployed war veterans "might well be part of any constructive program," but that he was opposed to payments to those who are employed.

MEXICO CALLING IN ITS GOLD Taken as Indication Country Will Return to Metal as Base.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22.—An indication that Mexico will return to the gold standard, abandoned in July of last year, was given today by a Treasury Department spokesman. President had ordered the purchase of national gold to be stored in the Bank of Mexico.

In Government circles it was said means of returning to a gold or partial gold standard were being studied and that meanwhile the Government would purchase and store the gold to be used as a reserve when the matter was decided.

KIEL IS AGAINST SOLDIERS' BONUS
PAYMENT NOW

G. O. P. Senatorial Nominee at Canton Barbecue, Declares Burden Is Too Great at This Time.

The State political campaign is well under way with the rival candidates for United States Senator filling extensive speaking engagements.

Henry W. Kiel, the Republican nominee, spoke yesterday at a community barbecue at Canton, Lewis County, where he came out flatly against immediate payment by the Federal government of the bonus to veterans.

Bennett Champ Clark, the Democratic nominee, spoke last night at Warrensburg and was to address the Missouri Editorial Association at Kansas City today. In the Warrensburg address and in the one prepared for delivery at Kansas City, Clark, assailed President Hoover's relief policies and demanded the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as a "dole to big business."

Kiel Against Bonus Now.

Kiel's address at Canton was devoted to the problem of reducing the cost of government. Concerning the soldiers' bonus, immediate payment of which would require more than $2,000,000,000, he said:

"I am in favor of our country's affording the best hospitals and medical facilities for caring for her soldiers and sailors. I am willing to suffer any personal privation to provide for the dependents of a man who was killed or permanently disabled in fighting under the Star Spangled Banner, but because of the depression, because of the millions of bread earners, who are unable to secure profitable employment, because of the unusual and stupendous demands that are being made on our national treasury in an attempt to provide profitable employment for honest, able and willing citizens, I am compelled in the sense of justice to our whole people, to say that I am opposed to the payment of the bonus at this time."

In his prepared Kansas City address Clark charged that President Hoover has attempted to take advantage of a few-day artificial upturns in the New York Stock Exchange to raise the cry of Republican prosperity.

"The bitter lessons of the last three years have apparently made no impression on Mr. Hoover," Clark said. "Millions of Americans have turned to their local artificially created bulges in the stock market, followed as they always are by equally artificial improvement in the commodity markets, do not mean the return of actual prosperity, unless the inherent causes of the depression have been removed—and they will not be under Herbert Hoover."

At Warrensburg, referring to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Clark said: "The only suggestion which Mr. Hoover has brought to my attention is that the whole situation was a $2,000,000,000 dole, which he has succeeded in raising to a $2,500,000,000 dole, for the benefit of the big banks and insurance companies—because that is all the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will amount to when all is said and done."

Lieutenant-Governor Winter, Republican nominee for Governor, will speak Oct. 3 at Bloomfield and Ponca City; Oct. 4 at Doniphan and Keweenaw; Oct. 5 at Catoosa and New Madrid. He and other State candidates are vigorously assailing "Boss" Pendleton's Democratic machine in Kansas City, which they charge is trying to get control of the whole State. They are expected to quote freely from the bitter attacks made on Pendleton's "bossism" by Russell L. Dearborn, defeated candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

TWO SPIDERS FIGHTING SNAKE IN LATEST ILLINOIS STRUGGLE

It Will Be "to a Finish," Says Owner of Basement Where Contest Is Going On.

By the Associated Press.
ELGIN, Ill., Sept. 23.—Two spiders are locked in a bitter 4-inch-garter snake in the basement of the home of Roland Swanberg, a banker. The fight is thought to have started at least a week ago because the spiders already have the snake wound up in about five inches of web.

One of the spiders is a male and the other a female. Observers pointed out that even if the female follows the old spider custom of eating its mate there still would be one left to carry on. "This battle will go to a finish," Swanberg said. "There will be no interference."

Elgin is 10 miles from St. Charles, scene of a recent struggle of 25 days between a snake and a spider, which was finally terminated by the Mayor, following protests from humane societies. The Mayor liberated the snake which is now getting fat on a diet of cream at a St. Charles hotel.

Forbids New York Mayoralty Vote.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—A permanent injunction stay issued by the Board of Elections from making any preparations for a mayoralty election this fall, was signed today by Supreme Court Justice John E. McGeehan, in conformity with his recent decision that no election for Mayor should be held this year. An appeal is to be taken.

Garner Back in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Speaker John N. Garner returned to Washington today after attending the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Sarah Jane Garner, at Detroit, Mich. He will go to New York Monday. He said he had not definitely decided where he would speak, or how extensive a campaign tour he would make.

SECOND SUIT FILED TO BAR MRS. FERGUSON

Gov. Sterling, Texas, Drops
Previous Action—Renews Charge of Fraud in Primary.

By the Associated Press.
AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 22.—Gov. R. S. Sterling filed a new suit yesterday contesting the returns of the Aug. 27 primary election, by which Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson was declared the Democratic gubernatorial nominee. Attached to the petition were 1300 pages of exhibits containing the names of 55,000 persons Sterling's attorneys said had cast illegal ballots. Mrs. Ferguson won by 400,000 majority.

The filing of the new suit followed the dismissal of the original suit, on motion of Sterling's attorneys.

The new suit asks the court to restrain Mrs. Ferguson from entering the general election as the Democratic nominee. Mrs. Ferguson is a former Governor and the wife of James E. Ferguson, who was impeached as Governor.

Sterling charges fraud and illegal practices in the primary. He charges Mrs. Ferguson is ineligible to the office of Governor, because of activities of her "marital partner," as a practicing attorney when she was chief executive of the State in 1926 and 1927. Citing a constitutional provision which prohibits the Governor from practicing any profession or receiving any reward, fee or compensation, Sterling said it was violated when the Fergusons' community earnings were increased by James E. Ferguson's fees, to more than $20,000 in each of the years he sat as Governor, above the salary paid Mrs. Ferguson by the State.

OFFICERS FEAR MISSING BANKER WAS MURDERED

Brother Told in Mysterious Phone Call That Burlington, Ok., Man "Will Not Return."

By the Associated Press. BURLINGTON, Ok., Sept. 23.—Fear that Henry C. Doherty, 36 years old, missing Burlington banker, met with foul play on a motor trip to Amarillo, Tex., was expressed today by authorities investigating his disappearance.

The Burlington Bank, of which he was president, failed to open Tuesday, three days after Doherty left home on a business trip to Texas. The bank's closing, according to B. Krat, bookkeeper, resulted from a shortage of cash. No irregularities were found by J. W. Ingram, State bank examiner.

In letters to his wife, mailed from Oklahoma City and Shamrock, Tex., Doherty told of picking up hitch hikers to keep him company, and officers expressed the belief he probably had been harmed by someone whom he sought to befriend.

Search for the banker revealed two mysterious telephone calls had been made Tuesday night to his brother in Wichita, Kan. The first, investigators said, told Doherty's brother: "I phone had news. Henry won't return. Don't tell anyone but your son and daughter. God bless you." The second, 30 minutes later, said: "That call a while ago was all a farce." Officers have been unable to trace the callers.

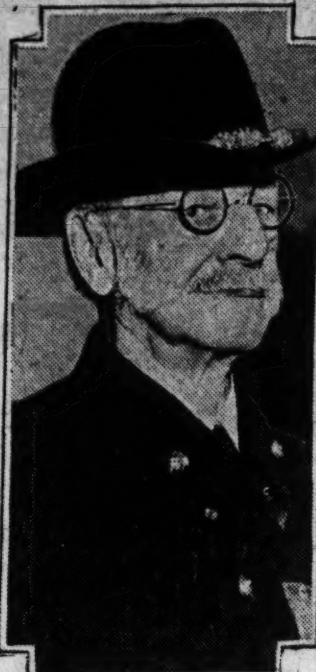

An automobile identified as Doherty's was found abandoned on the Newcastle road in Cleveland County, Oklahoma. Deputy Sheriffs said two discharged pistol shells were found in the rear seat of the car.

An anonymous note mailed from Oklahoma City and addressed to the Oklahoma Highway Commission, gave the name of Doherty's automobile license and read further:

"Please to look on the northeast side of the Santa Fe underpass and find what I saw north of Amarillo. He should have hit the guns. I was sure scared." Texas officers investigated but found no clews.

Rumania Honors Gen. MacArthur. BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 22.—The Grand Council of the Rumanian Order of the Star was honored today by King Carol on Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the United States army.

A CANDY THERMOMETER GUARANTEES SUCCESS

Home Sweets Easily Made With Small Investment in Accessory.

There's nothing older school children and their parents enjoy more than making candy at home as the evenings grow cooler.

It's lots easier than most people think if good ingredients are used and recipes are followed carefully. But the last includes the use of a candy thermometer. It's really the only way to properly gauge temperature of boiling mixtures—much better than trying out the candy in cold water, the old test.

A thermometer does not cost much, considering the resulting satisfaction, and it could well go down on the budget in the family amusement column.

Chocolate Fudge.

Put three tablespoons butter in a deep saucepan and when it is melted, but not bubbling, put in four squares unsweetened chocolate and stir constantly until chocolate is melted. Keep fire very low as chocolate scorches easily. Add three cups granulated sugar, one-third cup white corn syrup, one cup milk and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Stir constantly until sugar is dissolved and then boil without stirring until temperature reaches 242 degrees on the candy thermometer. Remove from the fire, pour one teaspoon vanilla over the top of the fudge and let stand without stirring or moving until the candy has cooled enough so that you can hold your hand on the bottom of the saucepan. Then beat steadily until thick and creamy. Pour into a buttered pan and mark into squares.

Pecan Pralines.

Melt one tablespoon butter in a saucepan, add two cups light brown sugar, two tablespoons light or dark corn syrup, and one-half cup thin cream or undiluted evaporated milk. Stir constantly until sugar is dissolved, then boil without stirring until mixture reaches 240 degrees. Let stand without stirring until mixture has set until thick and creamy. Place saucepan over a pan of hot water and heat until soft again. Add two cups pecan nut meats, drop from a tablespoon on heavily waxed paper and let stand until firm.

Raisin Balls.

Put two cups seeded raisins and one-half cup sliced peanuts through the meat chopper using the large blades. Add strained honey to moisten and flavor with one-half teaspoon grated lemon rind. Shape into small balls, roll in chocolate pellets and let stand in a cold place to harden.

Pecan Crisp.

Put four cups popped corn through the meat chopper, then spread in a well buttered shallow pan. Heat two tablespoons strained honey, add one and one-half cups sugar and stir constantly over a very slow fire until the sugar melts and is light tan in color. Stir in one teaspoon vanilla and pour over the popcorn, spreading evenly. When cold break in pieces. Equal parts popcorn and nuts may be used—one cup of each, chopped.

Peanut Brittle.

Shell roasted peanuts to make three cupfuls. Spread them in a well buttered, large, shallow pan. Mix two cups granulated sugar with one cup light brown sugar, one-half cup hot water and one-half cup white corn syrup. Heat slowly to the boiling point. Boil without stirring until it reaches 300 degrees on the candy thermometer. Remove at once from the fire, drop in one-quarter cup butter and one-eighth teaspoon baking soda.

Stir lightly to dissolve soda, then pour in a thin stream over nuts. Do not scrape out saucepan as it may cause mixture to sugar. Tip candy pan to have brittle form in a thin sheet. When cold break in irregular pieces. Any nuts or mixture of nuts may be used.

Ginger Mayonnaise.

To each half cup of mayonnaise add two tablespoons lemon juice and five tablespoons chopped preserved ginger. Good on fruit salads or plain lettuce.

HORS D'OEUVRES MAY BE WELL VARIED

Fruit, Tomatoes, Fish and Pickles Are Among the Many Ingredients.

There's nothing more attractive or zestful than hors d'oeuvres for just before going to the table or immediately on being seated.

They somehow seem to many women to be a little difficult, but one can soon learn to arrange a variety of them.

Many Combinations.

1. Slices of tomato marinated in French dressing; thin slices of mild onion cut to fit the tomato, and the two put together on a round of sauteed bread with mayonnaise and a slice of dill pickle.

2. Slices of tomatoes which have been hollowed out and filled with mayonnaise in which chopped sweet pickle, a few capers and crab meat have been mixed. Chill before serving.

3. Sardine and caviar canapes, or fish sandwich mixtures require mustard, sweet or dill pickles for contrasting flavor. Canned or smoked fish with a little tartar sauce on lettuce leaves are good.

Fruit Suggestions.

Marinate banana slices in lemon juice. Decorate with rosettes of whipped cream from pastry tube and garnish with cherries. Put on round crackers.

Pineapple Sections: Roll in chopped nuts and serve on thin rounds of toast topped with mayonnaise. Cut large dark cherries in halves. Fill with cream cheese.
Slice in thin rings and serve on crackers.

PER GLASS
on your Grape Jelly

The cheapest, most delicious grapes of the year are crowding the local markets. So read below how you can make jelly quicker and cheaper than ever this year... and then go to your grocer at once.

By Mrs. F. M. Bateman
ILLINOIS STATE JELLY CHAMPION

"I just hate to think of women still making jelly and jam the old-fashioned long-boil method. It's so costly.
And so terribly tedious!"

"I make all my prize-winning jellies and jams with Certo. And I would never think of doing it any other way."

"In the first place, Certo reduces boiling time for grape jelly, for instance, to 1/2 minute. Not one bit of the fruit juice has time to boil away.
And as a result I usually get fully 5 more glasses from the same amount of fruit... and save as much as 2 1/2c on every glass."

"Of course, this 1/2 minute of hard boiling also saves me lots of time, too. Indeed it takes me only 11 or 12 minutes from the time I put my fruit and sugar mixture on until the time my finished jelly is cooling in the glasses."

"And with Certo you get much better tasting jelly or jam, too. Certainly the 37 prizes the State Fair Judges awarded my jellies and jams in the last two years testify to that!"

Why don't you order a supply of Certo today—with your grapes? Get it at a bargain price by using the valuable coupon below. This offer is for a limited time only—and grapes, the last big jelly-making crop of the season, are at their finest and cheapest now. So act at once. Take the coupon to your grocer today. Certo

A TWO-IN-ONE DISH OF SCALLOPED HAM AND POTATOES

Baked Egg.
Break an egg into a buttered ramekin. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and pour a tablespoon of milk over the top. Set baking dish in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until it is set.
Repeat this until all the potatoes are used. Put the rest of the flour pepper to flour (not too much salt and ham may be quite salty).

Sprinkle some of flour mixture over potatoes and bake lightly with part of butter. Add another one-half inch layer of sliced potatoes, sprinkle again with flour mixture and dot with butter.

Peel and cut potatoes into thin slices. Place ham in bottom of a casserole. Cover with a half inch of sliced potatoes. Add salt and pepper to flour mixture, and butter over the top.

Fill the casserole with milk until the potatoes are covered. Bake in a moderate oven until the potatoes are done (about 50 to 60 minutes).

Baked Bananas.

Instead of potatoes, serve baked bananas, sometimes with meat patties, or with chops.

Makes Plain Foods Taste Like a Banquet

USE your leftovers... or buy the cheaper cuts—then just add Durkee's Dressing! It's the sauce for quality appetite with slim budgets! It's a man's sauce, with the tang men like... it's a woman's sauce, with a flavor she never finds elsewhere.

IT TAKES 7 MONTHS TO MAKE DURKEE'S

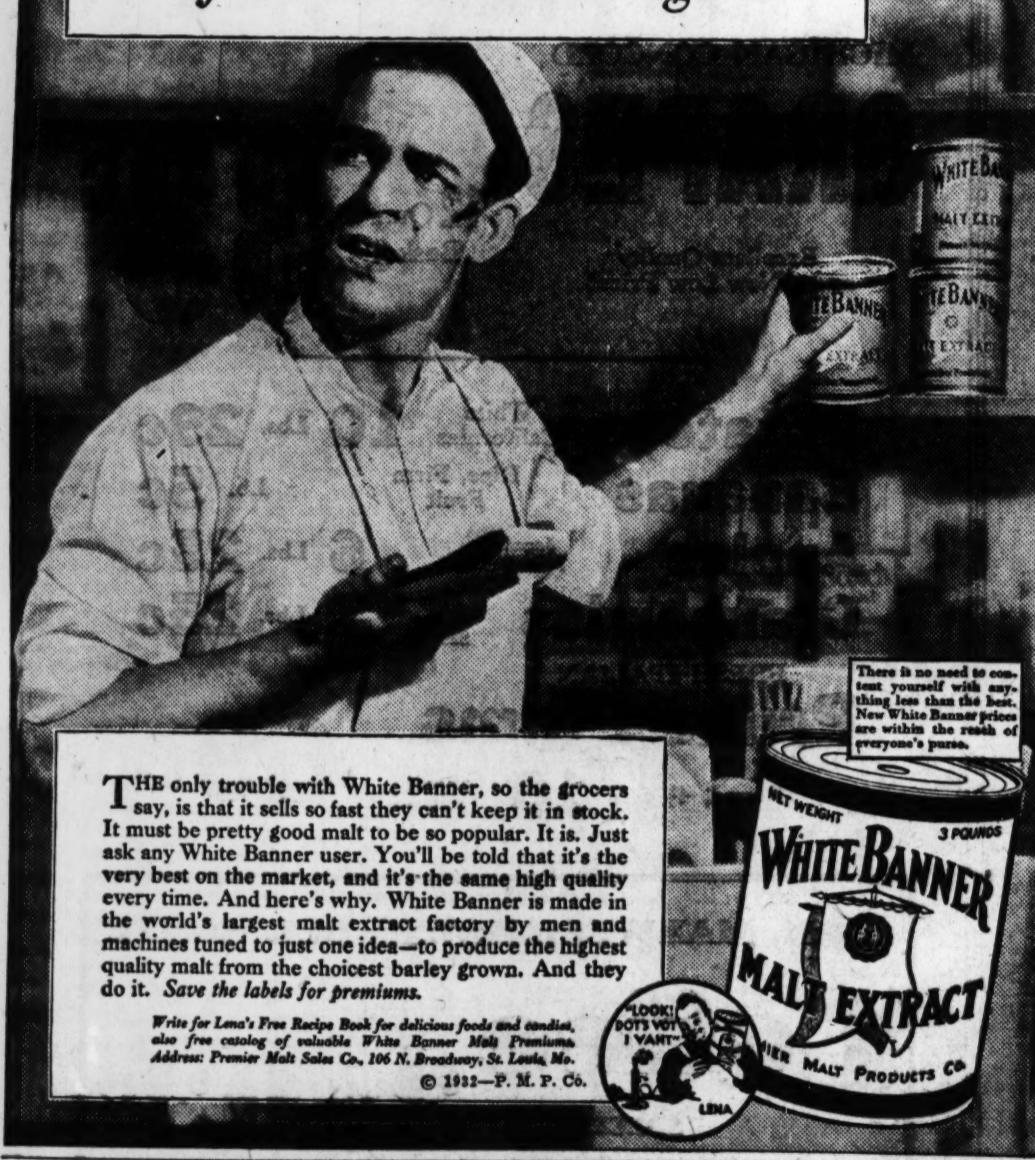

No wonder Durkee's is so delightfully different... it's flavor so tempting. Durkee's ages in wood for seven long months... seven months for the carefully chosen ingredients to properly blend and mature. This accounts for Durkee's extra goodness. You'll agree it's well worth the 7 cents more!

"Say, Boss, we're just about out of WHITE BANNER again"

THE only trouble with White Banner, so the grocers say, is that it sells so fast they can't keep it in stock. It must be pretty good malt to be so popular. It is. Just ask any White Banner user. You'll be told that it's the very best on the market, and it's the same high quality every time. And here's why. White Banner is made in the world's largest malt extract factory by men and machines tuned to just one idea—to produce the highest quality malt from the choicest barley grown. And they do it. Save the labels for premiums.

WEEKLY FRUIT AND VEGETABLE GOSSIP

Christmas Melons Added to Well Varied Market Assortment.

All tastes in melons can be satisfied with the extensive variety now available in the market. The newcomer is the orange and almost black mottled variety called Christimas melon. Persian, casaba and Honeydew melons are still popular but the favorite with many is the oval shaped pink meat Ordway which is delicious in taste.

Avocados and artichokes, which used to be considered luxuries, are coming in at prices which make them much more interesting to the average budget.

Pickles, Prospects.

Tiny white cucumbers, small cucumbers and red bell peppers are still profuse for pickling.

Next week the famous White Heath peaches, always chosen as the best peach for pickling by experienced cooks, will be in.

Fruit and Vegetables.

Crabapples and grapes are priced right for the last jelly making, and there are still peaches and Damson plums for preserves.

Summer and fall vegetables rival one another in variety. Celeri, cabbage, a tasty combination of two vegetables which should be more popular, is fine just now. Swiss chard, another vegetable not as much used as it might be, is in.

SWEET POTATO PONE MAY BE MADE WITH GINGER SNAPS

Two cups cooked and seasoned sweet potatoes, mashed; two tablespoons brown sugar, one-third cup hot water, 10 ginger snaps, two tablespoons butter.

Put sweet potatoes in buttered pudding dish and sprinkle with sugar. Over this pour hot water. Crumble ginger snaps and mix with softened butter. Spread over top of prepared potatoes. Bake in a hot oven 20 minutes.

QUINCE HONEY FINE FOR CHRISTMAS GIFT

gelatine Sponge of This Fruit Delicious as a Dessert.

As fruits lessen, we hasten to add more suggestions to our long list of jams, jelly and other delicacies suitable for Christmas gifts because of their unique recipes. Quince is now there and is being more delightful than quince, made after a very old recipe, which follows:

And for a dessert which is different from the ordinary, try quince sauce.

Quince Honey.

Select six large ripe quinces, quarter, peel, core and then cut in thin slices and put into cold water to prevent discoloring. Put cores and peels in a saucers and add cold water to just cover. Cover pan and boil slowly until very tender, or for about 25 minutes. Then strain, pressing out all the juice. Add sliced quinces to its juice and cook until quince is tender.

Measure and add one cup sugar to each cup of cooked fruit and juice. Stir until sugar is dissolved and then boil until syrup is as thick as marmalade. Do not stir any more than is necessary to keep texture from scorching. When one pour into small sterilized preserving jars (half-pint size is best), adjust the rubbers and seal immediately. Make about eight half-pint jars.

Quince Sponge.

One and one-half cups sweet cider or cranberry juice, four quinces, one and one-third cups sugar, two tablespoons gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, one-half cup boiling water, two egg whites. Place the cider in saucepan, add the quinces peeled and sliced, and cook until tender; then pass through a fruit press or sieve. Add the sugar. Soften gelatin in cold water, and dissolve in the boiling water, and add to quince pulp. When this begins to set add egg whites and beat until light. Pour into a mold and chill. Turn out and sprinkle with finely chopped nuts.

PLANNING THE MENU; RECIPES FOR THE WEEK

Children's Home Lunches Are Given Special Attention.

Cream Soups
Cream soups are high in food value and this fact should be taken into consideration when they are served. A generous serving is sufficient for the main course of a luncheon while a smaller portion is a suitable first course when the rest of the meal is not too heavy.

MIGHTY SEASONED MEAT LOAF

SPANISH BANANA SALAD
One-third cup almonds, one-half pimiento, two bananas, two teaspoons minced Spanish onion, two tablespoons cold boiled rice.
Blanch and chop almonds and shred pimiento. Add minced onion, sliced bananas and rice. The rice should be flaky. Toss the ingredients lightly and pour curry dressing over.

Spinach Souffle.
Cook two pounds of spinach and one-half pounds ground round steak, one cup bread crumbs,
one egg, three-quarters cup milk,
two tablespoons chopped onion, six strips salt pork, two tablespoons chopped parsley, one teaspoon calcium salt, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one teaspoon salt,
one-fourth teaspoon pepper.
Mix meat with bread crumbs, add beaten egg, milk and seasonings.
Pack into a greased loaf pan, lay the strips of pork over the top and bake in a moderate oven for one and one-fourth hours. Serve hot or cold.

No risk of canning failures

When you do your preserving or canning at home, there's no need to risk the failures that may result from sugar of inferior quality. No need to take a chance on an unknown sugar ... a sugar that might not be pure cane. C and H MENU Sugar is guaranteed. Every ounce is refined by the most modern scientific methods, in the world's largest sugar refinery. And you can be sure of getting this sugar, and no other, by insisting on the white cloth bag that bears the C and H MENU label. That's your guarantee, your protection against substitution.

Women didn't believe A soap that soaked out dirt so fast could be so kind to hands

Until they tried the amazing New Oxydol that does everything you'd expect of a perfect soap

Now the most popular soap in St. Louis does even more for you!

It dissolves faster than any soap you've ever seen into rich, lively suds. It rinses away faster—so clothes are gleaming white, so there's no scum left in dishpana. Just use enough for rich suds. It won't ball up. It's sweet smelling so it leaves your clothes fresh and fragrant. And it's as kind to hands as it is to delicate colors and dainty materials.

And the New Oxydol still makes 50% more suds—extra suds that do the extra work for you—that lighten all your household tasks so much. Those richer, longer-lasting suds are the real secret of easy washing. Suds that cut grease and materials.

Oxydol softens water too—makes rich suds in the hardest water. Whether water is hard or soft to begin with, it turns hard when you put in dirty clothes or greasy dishes. That's another reason Oxydol can do more for you—another reason you'll want to ask your grocer today for one of the big new packages!

CHASE & SANBORN'S tender-leaf Tea

Copyright, 1932, by Standard Brands Inc.

Two cups baking flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half cup shortening, three-fourths cup milk, one cup sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, three egg whites, beaten stiff.

After the first half of the first cranberry sauce wands a little, try some cranberry marmalade which may be made in sufficient quantity to put aside for many meals.

It's a happy mixture of oranges and cranberries, good to serve with hot or cold chicken, duck, goose or turkey.

Two oranges, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup liquid pectin.

Peel oranges and slice skin off one of them thin or run it through a food chopper. Cook in water in a covered saucepan until tender. Add oranges and cranberries which have been put through a chopper and boil gently for 10 minutes.

HUSBAND SKILLED IN SOUP MAKING FOUND

Former British Army Man Gives Pungent Mulligatawny Recipe.

A recent story in our Home Economics Section of a man who makes angel cake successfully, has brought a letter from a woman who says cake making is not the only art in which a man can excel.

Her husband, who served with the British army in India, makes the soup for the family, and has a number of good recipes.

Among them is the famous Indian Mulligatawny, which he has modified a little, as the native connection is a little too highly seasoned for Anglo-Saxon taste. Here's the way he makes it:

Mulligatawny Soup.

Cut four onions, one carrot, two turnips and one head of celery into little bits and add to two quarts of the water in which a large chicken has been boiled. Let some meat until the onions are soft. Rub the vegetables through a strainer and return to soup, adding one tablespoonful of curry powder and three tablespoonsfuls each of flour and butter rubbed to a paste. Stir until it boils. Brown some pieces of the chicken in fat and serve with the soup in the tureen. Boiled rice accompanies this dish, which makes a good one-piece dinner.

JELLIED CHICKEN LOAF FOR SMALL BRIDGE LUNCHEON

Three to four pounds chicken, one tablespoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two small onions, one and one-half tablespoons gelatine, one-fourth cup cold water, one cup celery, cut small; two plums, cut in strips; one large carrot, diced.

Have chicken cut up. Wash, wipe, rub with salt and pepper. Put in deep kettle, add carrot, onion. Enough water to cover, simmer until meat is tender and separated easily from bones. Strain liquid from meat, return to fire. Simmer liquid until reduced to three cups. Dissolve gelatine in cold water, dissolve in hot stock and cool. Remove chicken from bones, leave meat in large pieces.

Rinse a mold in cold water, arrange a layer of meat, sprinkle with chopped celery and garnish with strips of pimento. Add another layer of meat, more celery and pimento, then repeat until ingredients are all used. Pour cooled gelatine stock over all. Chill until set. Turn out on platter and surround with lettuce.

FRUIT FILLINGS ARE ALWAYS GOOD FOR LAYER CAKES

One-half cup sugar, two tablespoons flour, one-fourth cup orange juice, one teaspoon lemon juice, one teaspoon butter, one egg, few grains of salt.

Mix flour, sugar and salt. Add orange juice and a small amount of orange rind. Then add softened butter and egg yolk. Put in upper part of a double boiler and cook, stirring constantly until thick. Cool and put between layers.

One and one-half cups crushed prunes, one-half tablespoon lemon juice, one egg, one sponge cake, three tablespoons custard, one tablespoon butter, salt.

Heat pineapple, thicken with butter, cornstarch and salt, creamed together. Add to egg beaten light, return to double boiler and cook two minutes. Add lemon juice, cool and put between layers of sponge cake.

CREOLE HAM SLICES

Have a slice of ham cut two inches thick. Cover it with cold water and heat very gently for 30 minutes, keeping water well below the boiling point. Drain, put in a roasting pan and stick surface with about a dozen whole cloves. Mix one-half cup brown sugar with one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon and one-fourth cup vinegar.

Spread over ham and bake slowly for an hour, basting frequently with juice of the pan and covering the pan if necessary to keep ham from browning too fast. Bake sweet potatoes around the ham or bake them in the jackets while the ham is cooking.

CORN FLAKE CHARLOTTE

Two and one-half cups corn flakes, two cups sweetened apple sauce, rinsed of one-half lemon or juice of one-half orange or lemon, two tablespoons butter.

Butter a coddling dish and pour in a layer of corn flake crumbs. Cover with apple sauce to which the fruit juice or lemon rind has been added. Sprinkle the top with a layer of corn flakes. Dot with butter. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve with whipped cream.

ORANGE LOAF CAKE

Five egg yolks, one orange, one-half cup sugar, one orange, juice and rind, two teaspoons baking powder, three egg whites, one-half cup hot water, two cups flour.

Beat yolks until lemon color. Add sugar gradually. Beat thoroughly, then add hot water, orange juice and rind. Add flour mixed with baking powder. Lastly fold in beaten egg whites. Bake in moderate oven.

Cooking Measure. Use a large amount of water for cooking macaroni products and keep it boiling briskly. Allow plenty of room in the kettle to prevent boiling over.

There should be three cups of fruit pulp.

Add water, if necessary to make up this amount. Add sugar, bring to a full boil and boil rapidly for two minutes. Remove from stove, add pectin and stir well. Pour into clean, hot glasses and seal with paraffin.

A space-saving scheme is to hang a simple wire rack about two feet above the drainboard. The rack is attached to the wall or suspended from a shelf over the sink, and is used for draining dishes after washing. This leaves the drain itself free as a work table. When not holding dishes, the rack may serve as a vegetable bin, or as a place to keep pots and pans.

KITCHEN SHEARS

Keep a pair of kitchen shears with six or seven inch blades hanging over your work table. They are one of the most useful pieces of kitchen equipment—and their use multiply according to the ease with which you can reach them at the occasion arises.

For snipping celery leaves for soup, for cutting parsley, shredding lettuce, trimming artichokes, cutting marshmallows, orange rind, etc., they are invaluable. Try them and see, after a month, if they can get on without them.

LOAF WHITE CAKE

Two cups baking flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half cup shortening, three-fourths cup milk, one cup sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, three egg whites, beaten stiff.

After the first half of the first cranberry sauce wands a little, try some cranberry marmalade which may be made in sufficient quantity to put aside for many meals.

It's a happy mixture of oranges and cranberries, good to serve with hot or cold chicken, duck, goose or turkey.

Two oranges, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup liquid pectin.

Peel oranges and slice skin off one of them thin or run it through a food chopper. Cook in water in a covered saucepan until tender. Add oranges and cranberries which have been put through a chopper and boil gently for 10 minutes.

Salmon Salad.

Two cups flaked salmon, one cup diced cucumbers, one-half cup stuffed olives, sliced; two cups diced celery, four hard-cooked eggs, diced.

NEW KITCHEN DEVICES

There is a new teapot with a whistle in the spout, which blows the instant the water begins to boil. It is made in a smart modern style of shiny aluminum with a black handle.

A space-saving scheme is to hang a simple wire rack about two feet above the drainboard. 3 Ways to Borrow
Up to $300

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The stock market, after an early rise, encountered some late profit taking today, but weathered the selling and many leaders were up 1 to more than 2 points net. Buying of motor shares was a feature.

Sales were about 2,300,000 shares.

The rally had been strong all day, but about half their gains in stocks were slushy. Standards of California and New Jersey dipping around a point. Decli-ments by General Electric and

Com Products were announced during the period of profit-taking,

and brought some buying into those stocks.

General Motors, Nash and Chrysler gained a point or more, turning the day's best gains.

Auburn sold more than 3 points

United Pacific, Northern Pacific and Great Northern were up a point or more net. United States

Steel, Bethlehem, Westinghouse

Electric and Sears Roebuck gained a like amount. People's Gas was off 5 points.

The grain markets reacted slightly, losing 1/2 to 3/4 cent. Corn was off 5 cents to 1/2 a bushel net under heavy hedge buying.

Additional metal markets were quiet,

although bar silver dropped 1/2 cent. Cotton featured the smaller commodity markets, gaining 1/4 to nearly 1/2 a cent a pound in fairly animated trading.

Foreign exchanges were firm, sterling cables gaining 1/16 cent to

$2.92 1/16. French francs 1/16

cent. Day.

Wall street awaited with lively interest the outcome of the meeting of Eastern trunk line railroad holders seeking an agreement on consolidation in this territory.

Additional carloadings statements by individual roads attracted further attention to tomorrow's figures, covering all Class 1 roads for the week ended Sept. 17. Estimates of the probable increase ran as high as $6.00 to $10.00 a car.

St. Paul reported to the Associated Press that total loadings of the 751 cars against $6.625 in the first three weeks of July, a percent gain. Santa Fe reported that past gains had been held during the last week. Chicago Northwestern registered a gain for the week of 1002 cars over the previous week.

The trade reviews were encouraging.

A sharp decrease in member bank borrowings was shown in the recent report of the Federal Reserve. Bank discount rates dropped $43,000,000 to $35,000,000, lowest figure since last September when, after England's forced departure from the gold standard, members were compelled to borrow heavily from the central institutions.

The size of the decline was in part, caused by recent operations in connection with Treasury financing. Apparently, the member banks, which had bought heavily in the new Treasury obligations, had sold some of these to the program, to pay off their indebtedness to the Federal Reserve institutions.

In two other respects, the statements attracted attention. It showed a continuation of trend of currency back to the banks from overseas. Circulation fell $26,-

000,000, which was considerably more than seasonal. Monetary gold stocks also showed another rise, this time of $37,000,000, raising the total to $165,000,000.

On the same day when the heavy drawdown of the gold was made, the total monetary gold stood at $18,000,000, a gain since then of $45,000,000.

New York City member banks'

deposits and investments were up

$175,000,000, due to their participation in the Treasury financing.

They added $226,000,000 of these deposits to portfolios, at the same time reducing loans, both security and "other," by $25,000,000, and losses of $14,000,000 in other investments.

Federal Reserve Bank

deposits were down $25,000,-

000 against last week's $61,000,000 advance.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Thinks Socialism Fits With Democracy
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
REPLYING to your editorial, "The Socialist Campaign," appearing in your issue of Sept. 14, the writer cannot understand how the collective ownership of industry would destroy our form of government. The public ownership of postoffice, school and library systems, the municipal ownership of water works, light and power plants, transportation systems, etc., have not had any harmful effect on the political structure of our government.

One cannot say we have real democracy when a privileged few are allowed to exploit the many. Democracy means government by the people; not a few, but all the people. In line with that reasoning, Socialism would be the highest form of democracy. The only ones who need fear this "dictatorship" are the ones who now enjoy power over us.

Liken the prohibition to the subject in question, hardly an apt comparison. The eighteenth amendment deprives the people of something they cherish. Socialism would bestow upon them the things they desire. The public's reaction would scarcely be similar.

You say there is no precedent in history to justify a hope for the effectiveness of Socialism. Well, everything has to have a beginning. The theories and ideals of today are the realities of tomorrow. No one expects that complete Socialism can be achieved in one day.
But we can make a start in that direction by (democratically) voting the Socialist ticket.

FRANK N. FIX.

In Reply to Mr. Johnston:

REPLY to W. G. Johnston in your issue of Sept. 18, I beg to state the of course, Mr. Johnston is entitled, as is every American citizen, to his opinions and the free expression of the same.
Nevertheless, I am not a prisoner, prize fighter, thief, assassin, blagger, burglar, racketeer, forger of wills, cheat, spendthrift, corrupter of youth, profligate or scoundrel. Neither am I a saint. I am a Christian of sorts and my acquaintances consider and respect me as a gentleman. I detect a drunkard, I do like a glass of beer or wine and would not be ashamed to ask my mother, sweetheart, pastor or Mr. Johnston to have one with me, and I am voting well.
I fancy there are others in these United States of somewhat like character and opinion. ORLEY E. BETTS.

In Reply to a Comundrum:

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I HAVE read a communication to you from Elias Bell, entitled "Machine Age Comundrum," published Sept. 19. I assume that your correspondent has questioned the advisability of the activities of the St. Louis Chapter of the American Red Cross in connection with the sowing of cotton cloth which has been received from the American Red Cross for cotton appropriated by the Congress of the United States. The Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment notified the St. Louis chapter that garments are needed for our less fortunate neighbors who are suffering from the convulsions of the depression. If your correspondent can tell us where those in need of garments can find funds to purchase them from our mercantile houses and that there is no need "to sew for charity," I should like to consider him.

Of course, every sensible person would prefer just employment and the orderly production and distribution of clothing through regular manufacturing and mercantile establishments rather than charity and dole; but, until employment becomes general and the purchasing power of our less fortunate neighbors is restored, it seems unjust to criticize devoted women who are willing to sew garments for those in distress. Some day
I hope we shall have a just and economical system from which unemployment will be banished; until we do it seems folly to object to helpful hands which are being used to minister to those who are in dire distress.

J. LIONBERGER DAVIS.

We Are Referred to Wordsworth's THOUGHTS" editorial of Sept. 19,

I, on the spider and snake incident, quite ruthless and flippant. How can you comment so compassionlessly upon an occurrence that must have stirred the ire of any person with just a meager sense of pity? I say "ire" because I have in mind the callous spectators including the Mayor of St. Charles, who could not see the snake upon discovery and let the spider crawl for its natural food, but who chose to make a cruel betting sport of the death struggle.

You would rather not have humane people interfere with such grim tragedies of nature. You want us to suppress our pity for dumb reptiles and animals, who cannot think, perhaps, but can feel as intensely, if not more, than a human being.
What kind of ethics is that?

As for the Humane Society, which sometimes gives "a thought" in the "news" when, like in this instance, it interferes with a cruel sport—God bless
it. It has certainly made this world a happier place for our dumb companions.

I suggest that you meditate for a while upon these lines of Wordsworth:
"Never to blight our pleasure, or our pride with sorrow of the meanest thing."

Carlyle, Ill.

The Public Utility Speech

In his denunciation of the racketeering practices of the Power Trust, Gov. Roosevelt met expectations. All that he said about its vicious propaganda machine, its watering of securities and extortion of the consumer is fully spread upon the public records, inviting some new Zola to write another "Accuse." Gov. Roosevelt might have said more in his general indictment; he could not have said less.

It is no secret that Roosevelt's candidacy was bitterly opposed by the Power Trust, which did not like his record in New York, or that his candidacy received some of its strongest support from those who looked upon him as a champion of the public in this field. The "stop-Roosevelt" movement was in large part generated by power interests. At Chicago, this became increasingly clear as, by subterranean methods, attempts were made to push Ritchie and Baker to the fore. After the third ballot, when a deadlock seemed possible, so crude a device was employed as to bombard delegates with telegrams from every part of the country urging them to support Baker.

As further external evidence of Gov. Roosevelt's position on power, we find many known foes of the Power Trust swarming to his support. The most notable of these is Senator Norris of Nebraska, who has bolted the Republican party to support him. In a recent article explaining his stand, Norris says: "Roosevelt has fought the Power Trust at every step." Since it is Norris' greatest ambition to bring to a successful close his fight for government operation of Muscle Shoals, it is presumable that he believes that Roosevelt, as President, would be his ally.

And yet it is on this very issue of Muscle Shoals that fault may be found with the Portland speech. Gov. Roosevelt says: "State-owned or Federal-owned power sites can and should properly be developed by government itself. When so developed, private capital should be given the first opportunity to transmit and distribute the power on the basis of the best service and the lowest rates to give a reasonable profit only." In other words, Gov. Roosevelt is willing for the Government to go to great expense to build generating plants, as it has at Muscle Shoals, and then permit private companies to transmit and distribute the power.

That is exactly what the Power Trust desires. It is axiomatic that the major factors in fixing electric rates are transmission and distribution. Morris Llewellyn Cooke, a celebrated authority on power, has shown that power can be generated by water power at one-tenth of a mill per kilowatt hour, or 5 mills per kilowatt hour by coal, yet the American people have been paying 7½ to 10 cents per kilowatt hour for that same power. In a speech at Berlin two years ago, which Samuel Insull vainly tried to censor, Ambassador Sackett said: "I know of no other manufacturing industry where the sale price of the product to the great mass of consumers is 15 times the actual cost of production of the article sold."

The "gravy" in the power business, then, is in transmission and distribution, which Gov. Roosevelt would turn over to private companies. When the same question arose in New York State, Gov. Roosevelt took the view that he could farm out electricity to private companies and safeguard the public interest by causing utilities to enter into a "contract" limiting their return on the investment to 8 per cent, valuation to be based upon "actual cash" prudently invested.

There is considerable doubt as to the binding character of such a contract. By many, it is thought to be a franchise under a new name, and the history of franchises is a sad one from the public's point of view.

We trust Mr. King is not too optimistic, especially as concerns a real settlement of the Muscle Shoals question. In any event, while the Power Trust might be confronted with a more formidable antagonist than Mr. Roosevelt, his success in November would change the whole complexion of the National Government's attitude, and that alone would represent an important public gain.

The Passing Bourbons

Washington will retire Jones, who gave the country the brutal five-and-10-year liquor law, afeat worthy of Torquemada, is likelier.

The Washington correspondent of the New Republic says both Indiana and California are giving the Republican leaders grave concern this year. In that case, the end of Watson, whose claim to fame will rest upon his celebrated assurance that the Hawley-Smoot tariff law would revive prosperity in 30 days, seems imminent. If so, one of the greatest tories in American politics, a man capable of any time-serving, albeit sometimes stooping so low as he did when he tied up with the Ku Klux, will make his exit from the political stage.

As for Moses, author of the notorious declaration that the liberals from the West are sons of the wild jackass, it remains to be seen whether any wave, even one pushed on by such a groundswell as that we are witnessing now, can reach the hilltops of New Hampshire. They usually don't.

What St. Louis Must Do

The Executive Committee and the General Committee of 71, called to a meeting at the City Hall Wednesday, formulated and approved a program of relief measures for the winter and the coming year. The program includes a bond issue of $4,500,000 for emergency relief when needed, and a joint drive for all the relief agencies, in which the public is asked and expected to raise $8,500,000 of relief funds to provide for the entire year. The city has obtained a loan of $625,000 from the Federal Government to maintain relief work until Dec. 1, when the bond issue will come into effect if voted, and other funds will be available.

To meet the objection of the Real Estate Exchange, which protested vigorously against levying taxes for the bond issue on real property, the committee proposed that the bond issue, interest and principal, be paid out of the special taxes levied by the Board of Aldermen for relief purposes, which it is estimated will be amply sufficient to take care of the bonds. The cost of the bonds will therefore not fall on general property.

The committee stated that the entire $4,500,000 might not be needed, but would be drawn upon only for emergency, and that all of the bonds might not be issued. Of course, that is an estimate and not a pledge, but the sale of the bonds will be governed by need.

It is proposed that through the joint drive all other drives for relief usually made will be eliminated. The needs of all relief agencies will be concentrated in this one drive, and the funds realized will be distributed to the actual relief agencies of the Community Fund, and the excess will be used by the Citizens' or more, every afternoon.

St. Louisans can hear the returns from the world series this year without dying half a dozen times, their needs of all relief agencies will be concentrated in this one drive, and the funds realized will be distributed to the actual relief agencies of the Community Fund, and the excess will be used by the Citizens' or more, every afternoon.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1932.

SITUATION ON THE POLITICAL FRONT.

How Buying Power Can Be Restored

Billions have been devoted to checking decline, but business still lags; this is because unemployment and fear of it continue, thus curbing buying power; time is ripe for spreading work through shorter hours thereby putting millions back on pay roll; writer urges employers to take initiative and restore security to workers.

Charles Benedict in the Magazine of Wall Street.

SO FAR, billions of dollars have been devoted to save the banks, to salvage our industrial institutions, to raise the prices of commodities and to change the psychology of defeatism to one of hope and faith. At the moment, the measures adopted have produced a rising stock market and better business conditions. We are on the way.

There is a tremendous amount of funds available to combat the decline, little or nothing is being done to create markets for the production which is being encouraged.

The success of the whole plan hangs on the wide utilization of this current period to recreate markets and consumers for our goods. We must rebuild our home markets which, even in decline, are the envy of the world. Ninety per cent of our production in normal times is consumed within our own borders. This is not true in any other nation in the world. Most other countries must turn to development of foreign markets, we can actively devote ourselves to rehabilitation of domestic consumption.

It is unemployment—fear of losing the job this week, next month or within the next several months—that has cut into our home markets and purchasing power. Today, 10,000,000 people, or 20 per cent of those profitably employed in normal times, and representing 10,000,000 units of buying power, are without independent means of support.

There is only one cure for unemployment; it is employment. For months a plan of a seven-hour day and a five-day week has been advocated. Organized labor has produced statistics to prove that such a week would afford employment for all those now idle, even on today's level of business. This publication discussed the significance of this situation and urged adoption of the shorter hour week as far back as last February. The suggestion was adopted by various economic authorities and business leaders. President Hoover has recognized the validity of this principle of spreading the work in his recent advocacy of the five-day week for both industry and Government. It has been adopted by such industrial corporations as Goodyear, Tire, National Cash Register, among others. But it has been slow in general adoption.

The Department of Labor alone has made it literally effective in the Federal Government, other departments resorting to 36-day furloughs without pay. Some industrial concerns have resorted to similar expeditions, and millions have been employed without pay. This is not only unemployment but demand for bottoms. The world is going to come out of the present depression with a spanking new merchant fleet. Government subsidies are making most of the new liners possible. Government subsidies are likely to play an even more essential part in future shipping business than they have in the past.

The Plight of Ocean Shipping

From the Business Week.

THREE very important problems in marine economy have pushed themselves ahead of all recent ship news. Atlantic fares are likely to be increased again because the increase in business on present low rates has not been large enough to make it profitable. Shipping subsidies are being talked for some of the world's most important lines, actually announced for others. Shippers in many countries are asking for internationalization through international agreements.

Gloom really began to spread when Washington made public its mid-year review of world shipping. More than 14,000,000 gross tons of shipping were idle at the end of June, and that is 25 per cent more than a year ago.

The British had the largest volume of tied-up bottoms, but they had only 7 per cent more than last year. The United States lagged only slightly behind in the number of tons not in use—3,425,000—but the increase in this country was 21 per cent. Greatest shock is the 112 per cent increase for Germany, and 78 per cent for France.

Europe is concerned. The trans-Atlantic conference is strongly hinting at immediate action to combat the decline. The French, especially, are demanding it. They and the Germans were most reluctant to go for whatever prosperity there was in the gambling business. New York was a bigger field, where small-fry gamblers set up booths and took bets on the races as low as a single dime. A $2 bet was infrequent and an offer to wager a ten spot on a horse caused something akin to a financial panic down the alley.

So into Pool Alley, as that back-way section of the town was called, went the Ulmanns. No questions were asked for the owners of the tiny booth, demanded, and got, their rent in advance and that was all there was to it.

THE Ulmann boys were honest, something which could not be said of all of the money changers in the Alley, and they soon began to attract attention from the small-betters who learned where to go to get a square deal. Before long the Ulmanns took over the Alley, and the brothers moved up, taking a vacant store, which opened into the Alley, and putting in a wide direct line, the race track to insure a quick and reliable information to the winners and losers.

Then their original dream of a stand at the Fair Grounds came true, and they were headed for whatever prosperity there was in the gambling business. New York was a bigger field, where St. Louis bettors, at the track, wagered hundreds, the metropolitan sportsmen put up thousands.

The Ulmann reputation for honesty soon spread around in the East and Joe Ulmann became the King of the Bookmakers. No offer of bet was too large to be refused, and his stand, at the Saratoga track, was called "The Big Store." On the side he became the betting commissioner for John W. Gates, the "Bet-You-A-Million" Gates whose wagers ran into amazing figures. The money rolled in for Gates, who was operating alone now, and he had cash to put out in other fields. He backed Alice Neel in a show or two, ventures which cost him a lot of money, but he died leaving a comfortable fortune.

BRITAIN'S shipping interests have been considering the necessity of calling on the Government for a subsidy, since almost all competitors are operating with Government aid. France has come to the aid of the shipping business at home with a $4,500,000 loan to the French Line to meet a deficit.

In Italy, the merchant marine is a strong competitor, and the Italian government has been aiding it. The Italian reputation for honesty has spread around the world, and Joe Ulmann became the King of the Bookmakers. No offer of bet was too large to be refused, and his stand, at the Saratoga track, was called "The Big Store." On the side he became the betting commissioner for John W. Gates, the "Bet-You-A-Million" Gates whose wagers ran into amazing figures. The money rolled in for Gates, who was operating alone now, and he had cash to put out in other fields. He backed Alice Neel in a show or two, ventures which cost him a lot of money, but he died leaving a comfortable fortune.

ALEC ULLMAN, still living in the East and more or less retired now from the game, did well, too, while Cole, dead these 13 years, had some ups and downs, which bring us to the Little House on Olive Street. Cole—prostitute, Coley, not Coal—married Joe Ulmann, became the King of the Bookmakers. No offer of bet was too large to be refused, and his stand, at the Saratoga track, was called "The Big Store." On the side he became the betting commissioner for John W. Gates, the "Bet-You-A-Million" Gates whose wagers ran into amazing figures. The money rolled in for Gates, who was operating alone now, and he had cash to put out in other fields. He backed Alice Neel in a show or two, ventures which cost him a lot of money, but he died leaving a comfortable fortune.

When business depression lowered the demand for bottoms, many vessels were piled up in the obsolete class. The world is going to come out of the present depression with a spanking new merchant fleet. Government subsidies are making most of the new liners possible. Government subsidies are likely to play an even more essential part in future shipping business than they have in the past.

Here in St. Louis

By H. H. NIEMEYER

PEAKING of big St. Louis homes, as we believe it to be, naturally enough brings to mind the smallest residence in the city which is built not as a joke or for spite, but as a home, a well built home, even then, a sort of living place. Perhaps you have noticed it, for it is still standing on Olive street just west of Spring avenue. It is No. 1740, 11 inches wide, outside measurement, two stories high and built of yellow brick trimmed with white stone. It is occupied, almost continuously, by the family of the man who built it. Dr. D. is to go back a bit to get at the history of the tiny place with its stained glass, oval window which stands out in its present surroundings, like tan shoes on an undertaker.

In the 1880's, then, here in St. Louis, there were three fish salesmen, brothers, who dreamed of bigger and better things than Mississippi River oysters. They were the Ullman boys—Joe, Alec and Cole.

CITY CHURCH WORKERS HONOR LANSING SMITH

Dinner Given at Hotel on Occasion of His Removal to New York.

Associates of Lansing F. Smith in church and inter-church work attended a dinner given in his honor last evening at Hotel Chase. Smith, who has been active in religious undertakings here for 25 years, is about to remove to New York.

He is superintendent of the Sunday school of Kingshighway Presbyterian Church and was for 11 years manager of the Community Training School, for religious work. He was first recording secretary of the Metropolitan Church Federation, taking that position when the Federation was formed in 1920.

Speakers at the dinner were William H. Danforth, cereal manufacturer and head of the American Youth Foundation; Lester C. Haworth, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; the Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Armstrong, executive secretary of the Church Federation; the Rev. Dr. Arnold H. Lowe, pastor of Kingshighway Presbyterian Church; Noble R. Jones, president of the Rotary Club; the Rev. Dr. John W. Morris, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Dr. George A. Campbell, pastor of Union Christian Church; Byron W. Moser, banker; and Henry Bowman, representing the Missouri Sunday School Association. A resolution calling of Smith's services for recognition. He defeated H. M. Anderson of Kansas, 262 to 78.

Edward Cowan of Crawfordsville, Ind., was chosen surgeon-general, a post he held in 1929 and 1930.

The Rev. J. King Gibson, chaplain of the Washington Bureau, have been appointed to the St. Paul encampment to elect him next year.

He was pastor here for two years, after holding the St. Louis pastorate for a similar period.

Smith, who was elected chaplain.

Both he and Cowan had no opposition.

Supporters of Harding L. Merill of Wichita, Kan., who withdrew as a candidate for commander in favor of Wright, served notice they would expect the St. Paul encampment to elect him next year.

After installation of officers the encampment adjourned its business

SONS OF VETERANS' OFFICERS.

THE SONS OF UNION VETERANS

elect Titus L. Mullen, of Hellertown, Pa., commander; Frank L. Kirchherr, of Jamestown, Pa., senior vice-commander; James L. Lyons of Washington, junior vice-commander, and Charles Hale of Hartford, Conn., and William R. McGinn of Philadelphia, and Louis Knox of Providence, R. I., vice-commanders.

Daughters of Union Veterans chose Mrs. Doris Merriman, of Toledo, O., president, and Mrs. Dorothy Houghton of Wichita, Kan., vice-president.

Colonel Wright named Calvin Brainerd of Chicago as his adjutant-general. Ex-Commander Towns and Past Commanders Willett of Tama, Ia., as his judge advocate general. The offices of assistants to Brainerd and Towns were abolished for reasons of economy and expense.

SUDDENLY WHEN AT WORK

Mechanical Superintendent of the Globe-Democrat, 60, Succumbs

in His Office.

Frank J. de Wart, mechanical superintendent of the Globe-Democrat, died suddenly last night in his office, apparently of heart disease.

Mr. de Wart, who was 60 years old and lived at 4015 Taft avenue, appeared in good health an hour before a copy boy found his body lying in front of his desk. He had been employed by the newspaper for 25 years and was foreman of

THREE HELD AS BANK ROBBERS

One Suspect Shot in Clash With Kentucky Officers.

HINDMAN, Ky., Sept. 23.—The Bank of Hindman was held up and robbed of about $4000 yesterday. Five hours later three suspects were arrested. Two of them had been wounded when officers surrounded them. The men gave their names as Jim Anderson, who was shot in the leg, and W. C. Anderson, brothers of Salt Lick, Ky., and Sam Atkinson, who said he was from Oklahoma.

Sheriff Farris Hays said $200 was found on the men, but that they promised to lead officers to-

LOW MARKET ST. PAYING BID

42 PCT. UNDER ESTIMATE

Offer of $11,344 Made for Asphalt Surfacing of Four Blocks of Widened Street.

The lowest of bids received by the Board of Public Service yesterday for laying an asphalt surface on four blocks of widened Market street, between Eleventh and Fifteenth streets, was $11,344. The bidder was the Central Paving & Construction Co. Its offer was 42 per cent under the estimate of city engineers, which was based on recent bids.

A concrete base for this improvement has been nearly finished by another contractor for the three blocks between Twelfth boulevard and Fifteenth, but work has not been started on the remaining block. Included with the base are the curbs and strips of granite curbing where automobile will park.

The city also received a low bid of $4400 from the Central Paving & Construction Co. for a new asphaltic surfacing of Whittier street, between Page boulevard and Easton avenue.

EGAN ACCUSED OF DEALING IN LIQUOR AND DRUGS

Inquiry Ordered as to Former Public Defender Who Got Life for Murder.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—United States District Attorney George J. Hatfield has ordered an investigation into alleged liquor running and narcotic activities of Frank J. Egan, former San Francisco Public Defender, who is awaiting transfer to San Quentin prison on a life sentence for the murder of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes.

Albert Tinnin, who was convicted of killing Mrs. Hughes, Egan's mother, was taken to Folsom prison yesterday as a parole violator, a surprise move which defeated his stay of sentence. He has seven years yet to serve for attempted murder after which he will start his life sentence for Mrs. Hughes' murder.

Gandhi Sleeps Well.

Gandhi, 62 years old and weighing only 44 pounds, slept well last night on a webbed cot under a mango tree in the yard in front of the Yeroda jail. When he awoke he said his morning prayers as usual.

His voice was drawn and his eyes sunken after more than 70 hours of fasting, but he still had energy enough to dictate many letters and to see many visitors. Physicians warned him to talk as little as possible, however, in order to save his vocal chords.

Mrs. Gandhi, Mrs. Saironji Nair, his former Lieutenant, who is also a prisoner, Vallabh Patel, former chief of the Indian National Congress, were with him today.

Several leaders of the "untouchables" saw him and gave him full freedom to make the best possible arrangements in their behalf with Dr. Ambedkar, who is holding out for certain alternative safeguards for his followers.

Gandhi issued an appeal to the people of India to remain fasting with him and insisting that instead of this they set about doing all in their power to remove the caste stigma of untouchability. He is "Quite Optimistic."

"I'm quite optimistic regarding this afternoon's conference," he said. "My optimists may be perfectly stupid, however, for, if you were to ask my reasons for it, I have none save that I have much faith in this fast as a God-ordained thing, and I have an equal faith in this cause."

"Although it has required tremendous concentration, I have not found any difficulty. I know, however, that I cannot carry on like this much longer."

"My message to the American people is that they must not mistake this for a political move. It is a deep spiritual effort, the result of 50 years of constant application to an ideal. It is a penance, and it is seeing as an ideal nothing less than the deliverance of several millions of human beings from a horrible hellish servitude. Its success cannot but have repercussions on the whole of humanity. It is because I believe, rightly or wrongly, that the British decision imposing separate electorates threatens to put a huge obstacle in the way of a reform which for the past 10 years has been moving with geometrical progression that I have staked my life to resist it."

"After three days, my conviction is stronger than the step I have taken is absolutely correct. In my presentation of the case to the cause demands mobilizing world opinion to compel right conduct by the British Government."

CHAPTER SIXTEEN.

FOR a long moment De Bernis calmly considered Leach across the table. Then he tossed off the punch in his pandikin, pushed back his chair and rose.

"Since you're determined, that's the end of the matter. To engage the plate fleet with a ship in the foul state of the Black Swan is, as I said before, to court disaster. And that is something I never court. As for your destination, you may make it what you please."

The three of them stared up at him in stupefaction, incredulously, reluctant to believe what he seemed to convey.

"What d'you mean?" cried Ellis at last.

"That if Capt. Leach chooses to sail his ship and his men to destruction I'll be no party to it. You can make other enterprises: merchandisers like the Centaur, with cargoes of logwood and hides, cacao and spices. I'll be wishing you good-day."

"Sh down!" Leach bawled at him. The Captain had come to his feet in his anger. But Monsieur de Bernis remained, standing.

"You wish to reconsider?"

"It's time as had better consider. Then better consider how we stand. You're aboard my ship, and, by heaven, I'll have no neutrinos. You're here for a purpose, and that purpose you'll fulfill."

"In my way. On my own terms," said De Bernis, still imperious.

"In my way, dost hear? I am master here."

"Ah! And if I refuse?"

"You're aboard the yard-arm. Maybe worse."

"So!" said De Bernis. He raised his brows. He looked down his nose at Leach, considering him as he might have considered some curious and not too pleasant specimen. "You know, Captain, that I have a suspicion that this crew of yours takes an interest in me, particularly since they've learned to bring them Spanish gold! They want to know why you are hanging me, Tom. What shall you tell them? That it is because I refuse to let you lead them to destruction? That it is because I insist that you shall take measures to make victory assured? Is that what you will tell them?"

He watched the dark, evil face before him; saw the expression change; saw a lessening of the color in his cheeks. Then he looked at the other two. In the face of Ellis he saw a reflection of the Captain's discomfiture. Bundry's looked almost distressed, and it was Bundry who spoke.

"When all's said, Captain, Bernis isn't altogether wrong."

"I care nothing . . . Leach was beginning, rallying his obstinacy, when Ellis interrupted him.

"We have to care, Captain. Darnell! We have to care. Captain's the fact. He's the devil! Where's the sense o' quarreling when our interests are all the same. Bernis wants to do his best for us all as well as for himself. What if his courage be less than yours, Tom?"

"Caution isn't altogether a fault," came from Bundry. "As a seaman I know him to be right about the state of the ship and the rest. If we be caught on the high seas we might take a chance. But since we've time in hand, a' heaven's name let us spend it in making her properly seaworthy."

Thus Leach found himself abandoned by his own officers, and by this defection realized that at present it was De Bernis who held the trumps. By the secret in his possession of the whereabouts of that plate fleet, he could constrain them to his will, and they could use no counter with him.

He controlled himself. He stamped down his anger, flung over it a pretense almost of bonhomie.

"Aye, ye're right. Where's the sense o' quarreling? I can admit a fault. It's the way ye goes about things, Charley. Thee's all quille like a hedgehog. A' heaven's name, sit down, and fill your can, and let's agree things friendly." He pushed the jack of rum across, with a propitiatory grin. Then he sat down.

MONSIEUR de Bernis allowed himself to be propitiated. He permitted no faintest expression of triumph to escape him. He inclined his head a little, in acknowledgment, resumed his seat, and poured what was invited.

"You agree, then, to care?"

"Why, since not only you but Bundry here also thinks it's necessary, I suppose we must. Though frankly I'm not o' your ways o' thinking. But there . . . it's agreed, yes."

"In that case," said De Bernis, "I the destination I came to discuss with you, our immediate destination, should be the Albuquerque Keys. There's an island there—Maldita—uninhabited, and well known to me of old, with a cove where you can hide a dozen ships, and a long sheltered anchorage that was made for caravans. There's not a better place in all the Caribbean. You can lie snug there, and unsuspected, and it's convenient for another reason . . ." He paused, raising an impressive forefinger. "It lies within an easy two days' sail of the spot at which I mean to intercept the Spanish plate fleet."

It was on a Tuesday of the first week in June that the Centaur was captured by Tom Leach. As a result of Monsieur de Bernis' interview with him early on the following morning, the two ships were brought a point or two nearer to

SYNOPSIS.

It is the year 1860. The "Centaur," sailing from the West Indies for England is captured by the cutthroat Tom Leach, who, on board his vessel, "The Black Swan," has long terrorized ships on the Spanish Main. Passengers aboard the "Centaur" are Priscilla Harradine, daughter of the late Sir John Harradine, Captain general of the Royal Guards; Major Sands, Sir John's middle-aged assistant, who hopes to marry Priscilla; and Monsieur Charles de Bernis, gallant young Frenchman. De Bernis was a lieutenant of the notorious buccaneer, Henry Morgan, who reformed to enter the service of his King and rid the seas of pirates. Morgan offered a reward for the capture of Leach. After seizing the "Centaur," Leach murders the captain and crew. The passengers are spared a like fate through De Bernis' wit. He introduces Priscilla as his wife and the Major as his brother-in-law. He then tells the pirate chief a convincing story about his leaving Morgan to serve for Leach and enlist his aid in capturing a Spanish plate fleet worth a king's ransom. It is agreed that De Bernis is to take command of the "Centaur" and leave Leach in "The Black Swan" to the treasure. Major Sands, who dislikes De Bernis because of Priscilla's interest in the Frenchman, believes the Frenchman to be in league with Leach. De Bernis assures Priscilla and the skeptical Major that they are in no immediate danger. Pierre, De Bernis' servant, warns his master that Leach intends to double-cross him and not give him his share of the loot. De Bernis is too weak, "The Black Swan" is too slow and needs no caring, adding that if he were in command of the "Centaur" at the time of its capture, he would have outlasted and probably sunk "The Black Swan." Leach retorts, "Outsailing me is one thing; sinking me is another."

The taking of the Spanish Fort or San Lorenzo on the Chagres River. On another occasion—that was toward the end of the first dog-watch on the evening on which they had sighted Cape de la Vela—he fished his guitar, and perched himself on the hatch-coaming, under the new moon, with those wild ruffians swarming about him to listen to the gay, tuneful little Spanish songs with which he entertained them.

And yet, so delicately did he walk that tight-rope between familiarity and authority that none presumed upon his easy graciously.

It is the story of the woman who believed in Romance and tried to hold on to it all her life. Which is, of course, what every woman secretly tries to do.

Eva Birdsong was a famous Southern beauty. Fragrant as jasmine, glamorous as moonlight, she moved through the lives and hearts of those who knew her. So highly was she thought—indeed a symbol of her—a symbol of beauty, detached from all commonplace human requirements. And Eva was graciously willing that they should do so.

For Eva, too, believed in beauty. Believed that Beauty and Love were all that counted on earth, and that marriage should be a white temple, cushioning them forever.

So, wrapped in beauty and filled with dreamy loves, Eva gave herself to that good-looking, amiable scallywag, George Birdsong.

And it certainly was tough on George.

Not that George wasn't duly popular; and impressed. He was. All his life George was grateful. So grateful that he groveled. And all his life, Eva, in her lovely way, expected him to grovel.

For Eva had life, and she was all the men at need—he could be as foul and lewd as the vilest of them—and he knew, at need, how to drive them. But he did not know by what arts a man could successfully do both at the same time.

He consulted Hallwell upon this mystery. The shipmaster was prompt and contemptuous with an explanation.

"French tricks," was his terse summary, which shed no light whatever upon Wogan's resentful darkness.

Lace Trims Hats

A favorite trick for dressy hats of velvet is to adorn them with lace to match the kind used on the gown. One of the prettiest of next season's Washington debutes has a dress of the new shade of misty fuchsia in a crinkling surface satin with huge sleeves of lace, and a velvet girdle to harmonize with the bow holding the drapery of the neckline to one side. With this she is to wear a hat crowned with fuchsia velvet and a wired brim of lace.

Wool Necklaces

Wool necklaces are the next novelty. They are waist length hoops made of three strands of twisted wool, all of different colors and finished with a large silver clasp. One of these necklaces made of dark blue, yellow and blue-green strands is worn with a flock of blue green wool.

New Modes and Society Models

Prominent New York society women will be models during the fashion show to be held in that city for the benefit of the Social Services Auxiliary of the Metropolitan Hospitals, Inc. Some of the models and the costumes they will display, are pictured above. At the left is MRS. CHARLOTTE M. POTTER in a gold cloth hostess gown. MRS. HAROLD E. TALBOT, center, is wearing a red velvet evening gown with diamond and ruby jewelery, and MRS. GEORGE U. HARRIS, right, is wearing an ermine evening wrap trimmed with silver fox. The costumes to be shown are all in the new modes, designed by prominent couturiers.

The Cure.

"YOU poor bird," said Willy Nilly. "Now tell me, have any appetite?"

"None at all," said the whippoorwill.

"Could you sing your little song—'Whip-poor-will, whip-poor-will'—as I've often heard members of your family sing it?"

"Oh, I couldn't sing a note," said the whippoorwill.

"Can you sleep?" asked Willy Nilly.

"Hardly at all. I put my head under and in a few minutes I wake up again and just sit on this perch and think how sick I feel."

"What is the matter with you?" said Willy Nilly.

"What?" asked Flotilla Bottilla excitedly. "Can you cure him, Willy Nilly?"

"I think I can," said Willy Nilly, "but you may not like the cure, or want me to try it. We must set him free. He is suffering from a very bad case of homesickness."

"Set him free!" exclaimed Flotilla Bottilla. She helped Willy Nilly take the bird out of the cage and then took him to the door and watched him fly off slowly and at first, then winging it more rapidly.

"By night he'll be completely cured," said Willy Nilly. "Come over to my shop right after the sun has gone down and we'll take a walk to the woods!"

That evening Flotilla Bottilla went over to Willy Nilly's shop and together they walked to the woods. And soon they heard clearly and happily a voice singing:

"Whip-poor-will, whip-poor-

"He's cured of homesickness now," whispered Willy Nilly.

Jeweled Clips

The most elaborate and glittering clips which Paris has yet devised brighten the evening mode this year. The new designs, made of genuine jewels, are worn in unexpected places from the middle of an intricate cross-strap back decolleté, to the neck in the folds of material over one hip, or they gleam in the flat folds of a girdle. Occasionally they are clamped to one side of the front decolleté.

White Corduroy Velvet

White corduroy velvet is stepping to the fore as a fashion fabric. One of the smartest costumes seen at a recent Paris polo match was a suit of fine white corduroy velvet designed with a short bolero jacket having very wide cuffs on the three-quarter length sleeves.

road men were inclined to regard the results of the meeting as long step forward in the path
leading to unification. Railroad men have understood that the differences related principally to the allocation of trackage rights among four trunk lines, and to the allocation of some of the smaller
roads to the trunk lines.

It is said that each of the trunk roads had some complaint over the trackage rights granted it under
the commission's plan.

Dispute Over Branch. Another difference was said to have involved the allocation of the

Not Discussed.

The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Executives of the Eastern trunk line railroads announced after a long session yesterday that they had reached an accord on the modified plan recently approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission for consolidating the lines in Eastern territory into four major systems.
A brief statement issued after a meeting said the railroads of New York Central, Pennsylvania, Chesapeake & Ohio, and Baltimore & Ohio—had agreed and composed all differences between themselves arising on the plan.

It was added that the plan did not include the New England lines except the Boston & Albany, leased to the New York Central; and that the New England question was not considered. This referred to the Pennsylvania's holdings in New York, New Haven & Hartford, and Boston & Maine, with which the commerce Commission ruled with a decree by the Pennsylvania as a condition of fulfillment of the merger plan.

Statement of Executives.

The statement issued by the railroad executives follows:

The executives of the four systems have agreed and composed differences between themselves arising from the Interstate Commerce Commission's four-system consolidation plan of July, 1932.

The system plan does not include the New England lines, except the Boston & Albany Railroad, and therefore, that question was not considered.

Despite the failure of the executives to give details of the points which agreement was reached,
road men were inclined to regard the results of the meeting as
long step forward in the path
leading to unification. Railroad
men have understood that the differences related principally to the allocation of trackage rights among
four trunk lines, and to the allocation of some of the smaller
roads to the trunk lines.

It is said that each of the trunk
roads had some complaint over the trackage rights granted it under
the commission's plan.

Dispute Over Branch.

Another difference was said to have involved the allocation of the Oswego branch of the Delaware, Wawa & Western to the Chesapeake & Ohio Nickel Plate system. The main portion of the commission was awarded to the New York Central and the latter is reported to be in the process of tearing up the Oswego branch.

It was indicated that further meetings would be held to work out a program for the next step in the unification. The executives, which, it is believed, will mean the drafting of a report to the Interstate Commission.

The New York Times says it is possible that efforts to merge the Northern and Northern Pacific, which have been in abeyance for two years, may be resumed as a result of the Eastern development.
